ADMISSION.

The Fall Term begins the third Wednesday in September; the Spring Term the first school day in January.

The first three days in each term are given mainly to examinations for admission into College, and it is very important that applicants be present on the opening day. Failure to be thus on hand is a hindrance to the student and an inconvenience to the Faculty.

Applicants for admission to the Freshman Class, A.B. Course, will be examined in English Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra (through equations of the First Degree), Geometry (through Book I.), Cæsar's Gallic Wars, Cicero's Orations, Goodwin's Greek Grammar, and Leighton's Greek Lessons, or the equivalents of them. Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B.Ph. Course, will be examined in the same except the Greek, and candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B.S. Course, will be examined in all except the Latin and Greek.

Candidates for admission into classes above the Freshman will be examined, in addition to the studies named above, on the studies already completed by the class into which they seek to be admitted.

A thorough knowledge of the English, Greek, and Latin Grammars and of the fundamental principles of Mathematics cannot be too strongly urged. In Algebra, especial attention should be given to Factoring, Greatest Common Measure, Least Common Multiple, and Fractions; few students enter college properly drilled in these matters. Too many students attempt to enter college with inadequate preparation upon these subjects, and bring embarrassment to themselves and difficulties to their instructors which might be avoided by more careful, systematic instruction while in training for a college course. Special attention is directed to thorough preparation in English, Greek, and Latin, particularly by applicants for classes higher than Freshman.

Students who may wish to receive instruction in particular departments, without pursuing either regular course in full or becoming candidates for a degree, will be allowed to do so, provided they have the preparation requisite for successful work with the regular classes in these departments, and will take work enough to suitably engage their time.

After a satisfactory examination, each applicant will be furnished with a copy of the laws of the College, and, after having had time to read them carefully, will be required to matriculate, thereby pledging himself to observe college law during his continuance in the institution.

Satisfactory testimonials of good character will be required in all cases, and applicants coming from another college or academy must present certificates of honorable dismissal.

SUB-FRESHMAN DEPARTMENT.

The authorities of Emory College recognize the conspicuous lack of well-equipped schools for secondary instruction in our country, and seek to do what they can to supply the want by maintaining a Sub-Freshman Department. This department is in charge of Professor W. B. Griffin, Jr., and Professor Edgar H. Johnson. It is designed to accomplish the following important ends :

1. The best school in the country for the thorough preparation of young men for the regular college course. Very many of our patrons find it necessary to send their sons from home to be prepared for college. To them we offer advantages they can hardly find elsewhere. Their sons will be taught the studies they need to master in order to enter the regular college classes ; they will be taught thoroughly and in less time than will be necessary in schools not specifically devoted to such work.

2. There are hundreds of young men who, for various reasons, cannot take a regular college course ; some, because they cannot meet the cost ; some, because they feel they are too old to afford the time ; some, because they desire only a practical education. Many young men of this class need to be perfected in their elementary studies, as Grammar, Geography, and Arithmetic.

But they need to review their studies where they will have the advantages furnished by a college. They want access to large libraries and the opportunities afforded by debating societies ; also opportunity to study some parts of Natural Science, in connection with lectures and laboratory work. Some wish to add a few of the studies of the English Department of the college course. To such young men, Emory College, with its Sub-Freshman Department, offers advantages and opportunities that are rarely found.

3. Those who need to extend their English studies in securing a thorough business education will find here what they need.

The course of study requires two years for its completion, and is as appears on next page.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

The recent increase of the endowment of the College has made it possible to strengthen the faculty and greatly improve the equipment for work in the Collegiate Department. Elective courses of study are offered, which are full and varied.

Special attention is invited to the following points:

1. There is no branch of useful learning the study of which may not now be prosecuted as profitably and successfully at Emory College as at any other American college, and the variety of courses opened is sufficient to meet the tastes and wants of all.

2. The courses of study in English and the Bible are required for every degree at Emory College. Our mother tongue and our holy religion occupy the first place in the work of this institution.

3. The course in History, taken in connection with the study of Greek and Roman History in the Classical Department, and the study of the Bible, is one of the fullest and most beautiful courses of historical study to be found in an American college.

4. The courses in Natural Science, and Pure and Applied Mathematics are very full, and the satisfactory completion of the Bachelor of Science course will qualify the student for all the work of civil engineering, chemical analysis, etc.

5. The value of the modern languages is recognized by full and attractive courses

6. While Emory College recognizes fully the worth of scientific study and the value of the modern languages, it refuses to yield to an unwise popular clamor against the classics. No student can receive the degree of A. B. from this institution who has not satisfactorily completed the course in Latin and Greek, as well as English, and at least one of the modern languages. The literature of the Hebrews, Greeks, and Romans have entered vitally into our own civilization, and familiarity with them is reckoned of the highest value by the authorities of this College.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS.

In connection with the institution a TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS has been established. It is not designed to be a theological seminary, but such a school as is implied by the name, and in which may be met the wants of our young ministers who before entering upon their conference course desire a special preparation not offered by the usual college curriculum.

The course of study covers a period of two years and embraces thorough study of the English Bible, Logic, Rhetoric, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Homiletics, Church History, Systematic Theology, and such introductory study of Greek and Hebrew as will prepare the student to use intelligently the standard commentaries on the Old and New Testaments. The following schedule sets forth the work proposed:

FIRST YEAR.

FALL TERM.

1. English—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. Logic—Jevon's.
3. English Bible—Steele's Outlines and Lectures. 4. Elocution.
5. Church History—Fisher's. 6. Mental Philosophy—Mahan's.

SPRING TERM.

1. English—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. Moral Philosophy—Robinson's Principles and Practice of Morality. 3. English Bible—Steele's Outlines, with Lectures. 4. Elocution. 5. Church History—Fisher's. 6. Evidences of Christianity—Fisher's.

SECOND YEAR.

(Both Terms.)

1. Systematic Theology—Wakefield's, with Lectures. 2. English Bible—Steele's Outlines, with Lectures. 3. Church History—McTyeire's History of Methodism. 4. Homiletics—Austin Phelps's Theory of Preaching, with Lectures. 5. New Testament, Greek—Wescott and Hort's Text. 6. Hebrew—Manheimer's Complete Grammar. Reading: Selections from the Historical Books of the Old Testament.

The Literary Societies connected with the College are open to the students of the Training School, and the weekly discussion therein will do much to fit young preachers for their life-work. Besides the valuable libraries of these societies, the library of the College will be of great use to the students in Theology. It is especially rich in theological literature, and no library in the South, perhaps, contains so many rare books bearing on Methodist history.

In connection with the College are three of the largest houses in Oxford devoted to the use of students of small means. Board in these halls can be had as low as $8.00 a month. Board with private families can be secured at from $10.00 to $15.00 a month. No tuition is charged for the course in theology. An annual fee of $10.00 to cover library fee and the incidental expenses of the department is charged. The total cost of a year's work in the Training School may, therefore, be stated approximately as follows :

Library and incidental fee-----	$10 00
Board in helping hall-----	75 00
Light and laundry-----	10 00
Books-----	15 00
Total-----	$110 00
Matriculation fee, payable once , on entrance-----	$5 00

A. M. COURSE.

A candidate for the degree of A. M. must have received the degree of A. B. from this College, or from some other institution of learning at which the requirements for A. B. are, in the opinion of the faculty, equal to those of this College. In addition, the candidate must complete at least one of the following groups of studies, and stand a satisfactory examination upon the same.

I. MODERN LANGUAGES.

English—Cook's Seiver's Anglo-Saxon Grammar; Bright's Anglo-Saxon Gospel; Ten Brink's Early English Literature; Skeat's Specimens of English (1374—1579); Saintsbury's Elizabethan Literature. Essay: Rise and Development of English Drama. French—Whitney's French Grammar; any four plays of Molière, Racine, or Corneille; any one of the following: Dumas's La Tulipe Noire, Staël's Le Directoire, Souvestre's Le Philosophe sous les Toits, Saintain's Picciola; Saintsbury's French Literature; Sight translation of a continuous passage of English into French; a short Essay in French on any of the authors mentioned above. German—Whitney's German Grammar; any four plays of Schiller, Goethe or Lessing; any one of the following: Klopstock's Messiah, Goethe's Faust, Schiller's Geschichte des 30—Jaehrigen Krieges, Mrs. Conant's German Literature; Sight Translation of a continuous passage of English into German; a short Essay in German on any of the authors mentioned above. The English and either the French or German is the required course in this group.

II. ANCIENT LANGUAGES.

Greek—Euripides's Medea; Plato Contra Atheos; Aristophanes's Clouds; Aristophanes's Politics (Books I.—IV.). History of Greek Philosophy; Grote's History of Greece. Latin—Lucretius De Rerum Naturæ (two books); Satires of Juvenal (two books); Review of Roman History and Geography. An approved Essay on the Influence of the Roman or Greek Language and Literature on the Language and Literature of Modern Nations.

III. PHILOSOPHY.

Philosophy—Metaphysics of Sir William Hamilton; History of Philosophy, by Swegler; Theory of Morals, by Janet. Logic—Fowler's Elements of Inductive and Deductive Logic. Political Economy—Fawcett's. Evidences of Christianity—Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief, Fisher. An approved Philosophical Dissertation.

IV. MATHEMATICS.

Algebra—Todhunter's Theory of Equations to Symmetric Functions. Analytical Geometry—Transcendental Curves. Differential Calculus—Method of tracing Curves, Determining Concavity, Convexity

and Singular Points. Differential of an Arc or Surface of a Plane Curve—of Surfaces and Volumes of Revolution Integral Calculus—Rectification of Plane Curves; Quadrature of Surfaces of Revolution; Curvature of Solids of Revolution. The subjects and texts herein enumerated are given as a suggestive outline of the work and not as an inflexible course. In consequence of the mathematical elections allowed in senior year for A. B. degree, the A. M. course for each candidate will be arranged according to his needs. But in addition to the full undergraduate course, a knowledge of the theory of equations, advanced plane, analytical geometry and solid geometry will be required. An approved Mathematical Essay.

V. NATURAL SCIENCE.

Tyndall "On Sound"; Tyndall's "Heat as a mode of Motion"; Lommel's "The Nature of Light"; Davis's "Elementary Meteorology"; Cook's "Chemical Philosophy," or Caldwell's "Qualitative Analysis"; Schellen's "Spectrum Analysis"; Stewart's "The Conservation of Energy"; LeConte's "Elements of Geology" (or an equivalent study); Draper's "Physiology."

The equivalents of these studies for any application shall be designated by the Professor.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

By special act of the legislature, graduates of this department receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws, and their diplomas admit them to the bar in Georgia without examination.

The course of study may be completed in one year, divided into two terms—the first term beginning with the college term in September, and the second ending with the commencement in June.

COURSE OF STUDY.

FIRST TERM.

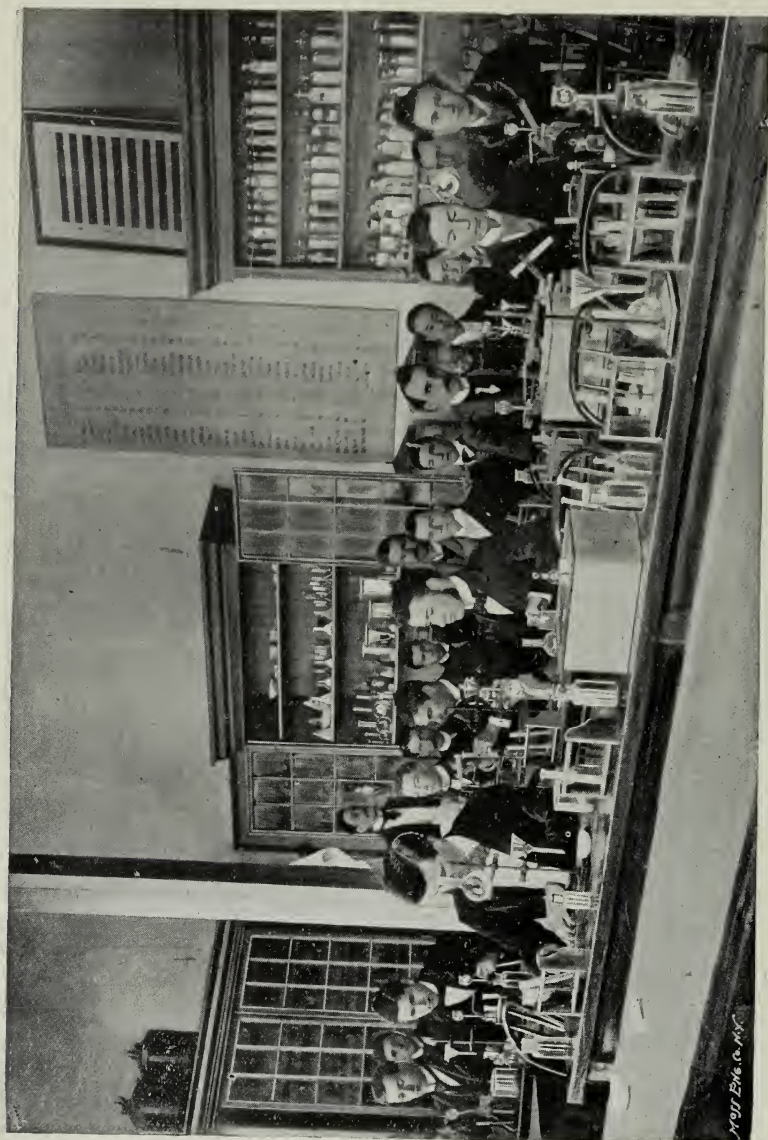

Blackstone's Commentaries; Smith on Contracts; Stephens's Pleading; Pollock on Torts; Political Economy, Jevons.

SECOND TERM.

Adam's Equity; Best on Evidence; Smith on Contracts; Code of Georgia; Parliamentary Law, Roberts; Constitutional History of United States, Woodrow Wilson.

Tuition fee for Entire Course, $70.00.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Many students expecting to enter college in the fall find themselves deficient in one or more studies—deficiencies which can be made up easily with the aid of a good teacher during the summer. To meet the wants of such students, as well as the needs of teachers in the common schools who desire a fuller acquaintance with some subjects, the Summer School was organized. It affords the best instruction at low rates. Tuition $5.00 per month. Board can be secured at Oxford, during the summer, at $10.00 a month.

DEGREES.

The regular degrees conferred by this institution are : Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Laws, and Master of Arts. They are conferred upon students who complete the courses leading to these degrees, and are never complimentary.

EXAMINATIONS.

There are quarterly (or more frequently, at the discretion of the instructor) written examinations of all classes. In addition to the regular studies of the course, these examinations embrace also the elementary studies—Geography, Arithmetic, and English Grammar, thus constantly refreshing the memory on fundamentals. All examinations are conducted in writing.

VACATIONS.

 There is but one vacation—extending from Commencement Day, second Wednesday in June, to third Wednesday in September. The college year is continuous—from third Wednesday in September to Commencement Day, except a recess of one week—Christmas. Experience proves the one vacation plan incomparably better for all concerned. By this arrangement many young men are enabled to make money enough during vacation to pay their expenses during the next college year. The President of the College helps them to find profitable employment.

A WORD TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

In view of the unavoidably evil effect of all absences, whether at the commencement or any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly requests that parents and guardians will in no way encourage or approve such absences without very urgent reasons. This is to be especially remarked in this day of expositions and the like. One day off at such a gathering distracts the mind for many days, not to mention the moral effect. Cheap railroad rates cannot pay for the damage done.

When any student, from habitual idleness or inattention to duty, is found flagging in his exercise, the cause is kindly inquired into, and if, after suitable attempts to reform him, he is incorrigible, the President will write to his parent or guardian, inform him of the facts, and request his withdrawal without notoriety or disgrace.

It is urged upon patrons to consider the importance to the student of beginning upon the first day of the term in which he enters. Examinations for admission to College begin on the day each term opens. (See Calendar.)

EXPENSES, ETC.

The total cost of a year at Emory is as low as that of any first-class college on this continent—lower than most. It has not seemed wise to the authorities of the institution to weaken its teaching force in order to make tuition free to all, but rather to grant such help to those only who really need it. When any insufficiently endowed college offers free tuition, it does so through the device of a delusive fee-bill almost the equivalent of the usual tuition, or by weakening its teaching force by consolidating chairs. In other words, such a college deceives its patrons with a pretense of cheapness, or defrauds them with superficial work. Emory College prefers to require those who are able to pay tuition, that those who are not able may be helped, and that they all may enjoy the best advantages.

But while it advertises no “free tuition,” board (a much larger item than tuition in a college course) is so low in Oxford, and the expenses arising from the social surroundings of the College (which cannot be stated in a catalogue, but are often heavily felt by students of other institutions), are so small that the annual expense of a student at Emory College, exclusive of clothing, can be brought within $200. Not a few students get through on less. The following schedule gives the rate of board, tuition, books, etc.

Matriculation fee (payable only on entering College), $5.00.

The sons of itinerant preachers are not charged tuition in the College classes. This rule applies to all the Annual Conferences. The sons of pastors of churches other than Methodist are granted the same privileges.

BOARD.

Board can be had in private families at $10 to $17 a month. The highest board in Oxford is $50 for three months, and includes furnished room, table, lights, fuel, and servants' attention. Board in Helping Halls is $8 to $10 a month.

HELPING HALLS.

Knowing well that there are thousands of young men in the country who have good minds, good conscience, true ambition, and little money—young men who for the most part work their way—the College, so far back as 1876, began, in a little six-room cottage, the experiment of procuring cheap board for those who needed it. In the Fall Term of that year ten young men began housekeeping in the rented house. Among them were Prof. W. T. Dumas, who originated the plan; the Rev. Kenneth McLain, of blessed memory; the Rev. George Loehr, of the same class (now of the China mission), and others, who are now in different fields doing good work as educated men. For three years the experiment was conducted in the little cottage. At the end it was proved to all who had knowledge of the facts: (1) that cheap and good board was in the reach of poor boys; (2) that in health, morals, social standing—among students and citizens—and scholarship, the “Hall” boys ranked with the best. From the beginning until the current college year not less than seven hundred young men of limited means have found in the “Helping Halls” the solution of their problem, and have been enabled to take a full or partial college course. Every year the “Hall” men have won distinctions—class honors, prize medals, or literary society positions.

THREE OF THE LARGEST AND BEST HOUSES in Oxford are used as “Helping Halls.” Good men and women have furnished the means to procure these buildings for this purpose.

The “Helping Halls” are under the direct control of the President of the College; he appoints the “managers,” who are responsible to him. The following principles are observed in determining the question of admittance; 1. No little boys are admitted, unless with older brothers or some mature friend who may occupy a brother’s place. 2. None are admitted who do not need this sort of aid. 3. No student without a good showing as to upright character is admitted.

Incalculable good has been accomplished through the “Helping Halls.” The experiment has been long and thoroughly and successfully made.

Not a few of the “Hall” men make enough selling books, teaching school, etc., during vacation months—July, August, and September—to pay their expenses during the college year. A great number make enough, with a little help from home, to solve their problem.

Among the “Hall” men of the present year are a number looking to the ministry.

Itinerant preachers with short salaries will find at Emory, with the “Helping Hall” and free tuition, a chance to educate their sons. Many who get help to make their way the first year find themselves able to go on.

The following has been the order of management for the college year 1895-96:

Young L. G. Harris Hall—Rev. D. B. Cantrell, Manager.

Marvin Hall—O. L. Callahan, Manager.

Andrew Hall—Rev. R. E. Wright, Manager.[†]

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION, ETC.

Emory College is located in the village of Oxford, Newton county, Ga., forty miles east of Atlanta, one mile from the Georgia Railroad. A street-car line runs to the depot. Oxford is proverbially healthy, and emphatically the student's home. The village is on a high granite ridge, with no possible local cause of sickness. Its literary, social, and religious advantages combined are unexcelled. By special act of the Legislature drinking and gambling saloons are excluded from the town and from within one mile of its corporate limits. The quiet seclusion of the place invites to study, and prevailing influences around favor the formation of good habits and the development of a true manhood.

Emory College is the joint property of the North Georgia, South Georgia, and Florida Annual Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. While it is Methodist in its organization, it is not exclusive or sectarian, numbering among its patrons members of all Protestant denominations.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The authorities of this institution are unwilling to take boys and young men away from the influences and restraints of home at a period in life when passion is strongest and habits are forming, without bringing to bear the most direct and intentional effort to secure their religious well-being. Accordingly, while in the exercises and instruction of the College there is nothing sectarian, a pronounced Christian life is urged upon all the students. The Bible is systematically studied by every class, from Freshman to Senior. If Grecian and Roman mythologies are thought necessary for classical culture, the law of Moses and the Gospel of Christ are more necessary to Christian culture. So Emory College teaches, and observes to do.

Every College-day, morning and evening, prayers are held in the Chapel, at which all students are required to be present. The services consist of reading the Scriptures, singing, and prayer. The Chapel is supplied with an organ and suitable hymn-books (containing both words and music), and the Chapel service is a pleasure and blessing to all.

Every student is required to attend church twice on the Sabbath.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two flourishing literary societies—the Few and the Phi Gamma—connected with the College. These societies date their origin almost with that of the College itself. The Phi Gamma was organized in 1837, and the Few in 1839. Each society has its own building, containing debating halls, reading-room and library, etc., comfortably and handsomely furnished. The library of the Phi Gamma Society contains 2,500 volumes; that of the Few Society, 3,000 volumes; representing a wide range of the best literature. The reading-rooms are supplied with the prominent journals and reviews of the day, besides valuable files of those of earlier date, some as far back as 1792.

The active membership embraces a majority of the students of the College, while the total lists run up into thousands.

The weekly discussions of these societies offer the best facilities to the students to become ready speakers and able debaters, and are regarded as invaluable aid to the instruction and culture furnished by the College.

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY

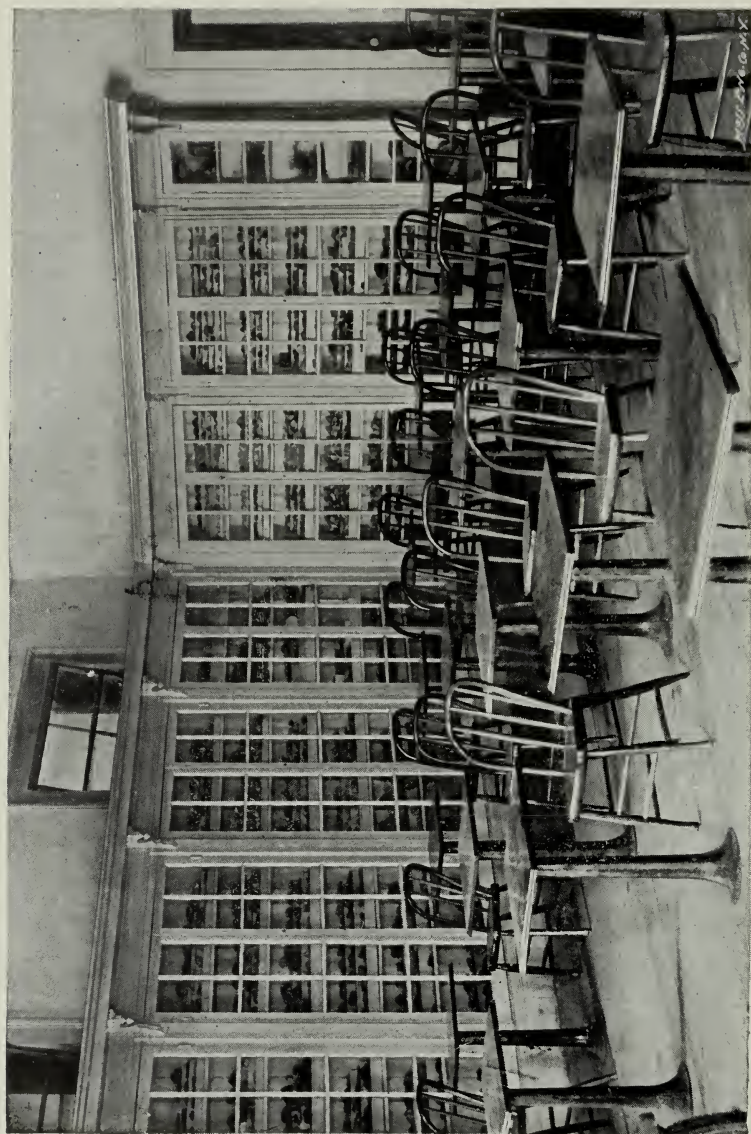

Contains about 16,000 volumes, and the collection is enlarged and improved constantly. During the current year the valuable library of the late Dr. W. P. Harrison has come into the possession of the College, which, added to the large collection previously owned, makes the library second to none in the Southern States. The Library is open every day, and is furnished comfortably for work.

The library room in Seney Hall has shelf space for 35,000 volumes—space which it is hoped will be rapidly filled with the best books published in Europe and America. In this work the efficient co-operation of the friends of the institution is invoked. The alumni—ever loyal to Emory College—are particularly requested to lend their invaluable aid in greatly enlarging and improving our collection of useful works. The alumni can give to our Library, from their private collections, thousands of useful books. Other institutions have been enriched in this way. Many valuable books came to the Library in this way during the past year, and from the library fees of students purchases are made each year of the best books that are published. It is proposed to collect such a library as will meet all the wants of young men who are seeking the highest literary culture.

The alumni and the friends of the College will confer a great favor upon the institution by sending to the Librarian any works which they may be able to spare, or by making contributions of money for the purchase of books.

It is particularly desired to gather a large collection of books bearing upon Southern history, and especially that of Georgia. During the past year the Library has received additions of this sort of a most valuable character. It now contains all the digests of the laws of Georgia, and all the acts of the Legislature from 1850 to 1890. The acts prior to 1850 and since 1890 are earnestly desired. Bound copies of newspapers published before and during the war are very valuable to the Library.

Those who can spare books, and who may hesitate, supposing that duplicates are already in the Library, can readily ascertain the facts in the case by dropping a note to the Librarian, Professor H. H. Stone, Oxford, Ga. Duplicates of good books are as welcome as they are useful.

A SECTION OF THE MUSEUM.

THE MINERAL CABINET.

The Mineral Cabinet is very large, containing several thousand of specimens collected with care during the last thirty years, and embracing many of the most beautiful, perfect, and valuable specimens of crystallization and other mineral forms from the most important localities in Europe and America.

The collection has grown so large and interesting, it has attracted the attention of many people, through whose thoughtful generosity it steadily grows.

We solicit the co-operation of our friends in bringing together a still larger and more perfect collection of mineralogical and other specimens that may be useful in the study of Natural Science.

THE MUSEUM.

Through the gifts of Dr. Young J. Allen, Colonel C. P. Crawford, Rev. E. A. Gray, Bishop A. G. Haygood, and others, a most interesting collection of objects of historical interest has been made. The collection was greatly enriched recently by two shipments from Professor W. P. Turner, of the class of 1889, now resident in Japan.

APPARATUS.

Important additions are made annually to the Chemical, Mathematical, and Philosophical Apparatus. The College was never so well furnished in this department. Very special attention is given to teaching the students the methods of conducting experiments for themselves. This is a marked feature in the Scientific Department of the College.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The College is indebted to the following persons for valuable contributions to the Library and Mineral Cabinet during the past year:

Rev. W. P. Turner, Kobe, Japan; Prof. Edgar H. Johnson, Oxford, Ga.; Rev. J. V. M. Morris, Grovetown, Ga.; Mr. Robert J. Travis, Covington; Hon. J. J. Jones, Waynesboro; Mrs. John Turner, Culverton; Rev. J. W. Lee, D.D., St. Louis, Mo.; Bishop A. G. Haygood, Oxford; Rev. Robert E. Wright, Phoenix, Arizona; Mr. J. R. Dykes, Marshallville; J. P. Stevens & Bro., Atlanta; Mrs. A. H. Colquitt, Atlanta; Mr. R. C. Guinn, Covington; Rev. H. N. Banks, Starrsville, Ga.

HONORS, MEDALS, ETC.

Students are incited to diligence and fidelity by awards of Honors, Medals, etc., and no damage is done, it is believed, to moral and spiritual character.

The honors are awarded under the following regulations, taken from the Statutes of the College :

Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third, and Fourth Honor—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their “final class-standing.” Of these, two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A.B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B.Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions, an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the B.S. degree. But, when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the Honor in question shall be awarded to a candidate for the A.B. degree next to those to whom Honors have already been awarded. To the graduates receiving the first and second Honors, the Faculty shall make the following assignments for Commencement :

To the graduate receiving First Honor, the Valedictory Address ; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor, the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, Greek, German, French, or English.

The following Prizes and Medals are offered for excellence in the various branches of study.

Sub-Freshman Medal. The Adjunct Professors in charge of the Sub-Freshman Class give a Gold Medal to the member of the class who is adjudged to have excelled in Declamation at commencement.

The “Freshman Medal.” The Faculty gives a Medal to be awarded to that member of the Freshman Class excelling in Declamation at Commencement.

The Sophomore Declamation Medals. Two Gold Medals are given for excellence in declamation by Sophomore speakers, designated as the “First Sophomore Medal” and “The Second Sophomore Medal.” They are presented (with a suitable address) at Commencement to those members of the Sophomore Class who are adjudged to have excelled in Declamation.

The “Junior Medal.” A Gold Medal is offered for the best oration by any Junior speaker at commencement.

The “Boynton Prize Medal.” The late MR. CHARLES E. BOYNTON, of Atlanta, Ga., endowed a Medal for the best Essay written by any member of the Junior or Senior Class.

The Palmer Prize Medal.” MR. L. D. PALMER, an alumnus of the Class of 1855, has established a Gold Medal for excellence in Mathematics.

The “Bigham Medal.” REV. R. J. BIGHAM, an alumnus of the Class of 1877, has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Freshman Class.

The "Phinizy Medal." LEONARD PHINIZY, Esq., of Augusta, Ga., has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Sophomore Class.

The "Reppard Greek Medal." MR. R. B. REPPARD, of Savannah, Ga., has endowed a Medal for excellence in Greek.

The "Latin Medal." An alumnus of the College offers a Medal for excellence in Latin.

The "Allen Medal." The REV. YOUNG J. ALLEN, D.D., LL.D., of Shanghai, China, an alumnus of the year 1858, has established a Gold Medal "for the best Essay written by any student of Emory College preparing for the Christian ministry."

The "Pasco Prize Medal." The REV. F. PASCO, of the Florida Conference, has endowed a Gold Medal for excellence in the Department of Natural Science.

The "Senior Medal." The Faculty offers a Gold Medal for the best Graduating Oration by any Senior speaker, "both matter and manner to be considered."

The "Park Medal." CAPT. R. E. PARK, of Class of 1862, has endowed a Gold Medal for the best Essay, by any member of the Junior or Senior Class, on the Life and Times of Jefferson Davis.

The "J. B. Johnston Prize." Rev. J. B. Johnston, Dawson, Ga., offers a prize of $25 in gold for the best work in the department of English Language and Literature.

The "Lester Prize." Col. J. G. Lester, Covington, offers a prize of $20 in gold for the best work in the department of Mental and Moral Science.

These Medals and Prizes are awarded on Monday afternoon of each Commencement, at the close of the Champion Debate.

APPENDIX.

Act of Incorporation and Other Statutes.

1836.

An Act to Incorporate Emory College, to be located in the County of Newton.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, George F. Pierce, Charles H. Saunders, David P. Hillhouse, William P. Graham, Seaborn Jones, Joseph A. Eve, Iverson L. Graves, Lucius Wittich, and John Parks be, and they are, hereby appointed trustees of a college, to be established in the county of Newton, in this State, which shall be known and called by the name of Emory College.

SEC. 2. The aforesaid trustees, and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to make such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary for the government of said college; provided, such laws and regulations be not repugnant to the constitution and laws of this State.

SEC. 3. The said trustees and their successors in office, under the name and style of "Trustees of Emory College," may use a common seal, and shall be, and are hereby declared to be capable in law or equity, of suing and being sued; pleading and being impleaded; contracting and being contracted with; and of using all means necessary and lawful for securing and defending any money, property, debts, or demands which do now, or may hereafter belong to said college; for receiving all grants, gifts, bequests, devises, or conveyances of property of all descriptions whatever.

SEC. 4. The said trustees and their successors in office shall be entrusted with, and entitled as such, to have and hold all manner of property, both real and personal, all donations, grants, gifts, bequests, legacies, privileges, and immunities whatever, which may now belong to said college, or which may hereafter be made or conveyed to it; and no misnomer of the corporation shall prevent its rights from vesting whenever it shall appear or can be ascertained that it was the intention of the party or parties, to sell, give, or bequeath any right or interest to the said corporation.

SEC. 5. The said trustees and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to appoint and remove all officers connected with the said college, and to compel them to give bond and security, according to the by-laws of the institution; and that the said board of trustees and their successors in office, shall have power and authority to remove any member of their board for the violation of their by-laws; provided, that no member of the board shall be removed until he shall be sufficiently indemnified against all responsibilities for the payment of money which he or they may have incurred as trustee or trustees aforesaid.

SEC. 6. The President of the said college, with the consent of the professors and trustees, shall have power and authority to confer and award all such honors, degrees, and licenses as are usually conferred in colleges and universities.

SEC. 7. When any vacancy shall happen in said board of trustees, the Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, when in conference assembled, shall have power and authority to fill such vacancies as shall or may happen, by the death, resignation, or removal of Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, and George F. Pierce; and any vacancies that may happen by the death, resignation, or removal of any person or persons appointed by the said conference to succeed them from time to time, and that the certificate of the presiding officer of said conference, for the time being, attested by the secretary thereof, shall be sufficient evidence of said appointment, and that all other vacancies be filled by the said board of trustees.

SEC. 8. Should the said trustees, or a majority of them, believe that the prospective interest of the aforesaid college will be increased by locating it in any county in this State, other than the county of Newton, they shall be, and are hereby empowered to fix the site of said college in any county in this State, anything in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

JOSEPH DAY, Speaker House of Representatives.

ROBERT M. ECHOLS, President of Senate.

Assented to December 10, 1836.

WILLIAM SCHLEY,
Governor.

1845.

Resolution authorizing His Excellency, the Governor, to furnish the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, with complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, in General Assembly convened, That His Excellency, the Governor, be requested to deliver to the Librarian of the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, or order, two complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives, or as many of the numbers of said Journals as can be conveniently spared without breaking the sets now in the Public Library of the State.

Assented to December 8, 1845.

An Act to exempt Emory College and other Colleges in this State from taxation and to place them on the same footing with the University of Georgia.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the passage of this Act, that all the property of Emory College and other colleges in this State shall be exempt from taxation, and shall be upon the same footing with the University of Georgia.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That all the laws and parts of laws militating against this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved February 21, 1850.

An Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia and to provide the necessary means for the same.

WHEREAS, It is a matter of primary importance that Georgia should have native educated teachers for the instruction of the children of the State; and whereas, there are many indigent maimed soldiers in the State, under thirty years, who, by reason of the loss of limbs, are deprived of the ability to perform physical labor; and whereas, it is a holy and patriotic duty to provide in the best manner possible for those unfortunate patriots; for remedy whereof:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, etc., That all indigent maimed soldiers of the State of Georgia, under the age of thirty years old, be educated at the University of the State of Georgia, at the Mercer University, at Emory College, at Oglethorpe University, and at Bowdon College. free of charge for tuition, books, board and clothing, until completion of their legitimate term.

SEC. 2. That upon the application, accompanied with proper vouchers of any indigent maimed soldier, that he is of the class above specified, to the trustees of said universities and colleges, they shall forthwith receive him into said institution, and give him all the benefits of the same, upon the applicant entering into a written obligation, upon his honor, to teach, when he shall have completed his collegiate course, the same number of years in Georgia he may have been in said universities or colleges.

SEC. 3. That, for the purpose of effectually carrying into efficient operation the provisions of this Act, that His Excellency, the Governor, be, and is hereby authorized, should there not be funds provided for in the Treasury, to issue to the trustees of said universities and colleges the bonds of the State, payable at such times and in such manner as he may deem best, to an amount sufficient to accomplish and carry into effectual operation the provisions of this Act; Provided, the State will not pay more than three hundred dollars per annum for each beneficiary under this Act.

Approved December 18, 1866.

1869.

An Act to repeal an Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia, approved December 18, 1866.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, That the Act entitled an Act to educate indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia be, and the same is, hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. Repeals conflicting laws.

Approved March 19, 1869.

1886.

An Act to amend "An Act to incorporate Emory College, in the county of Newton," approved December 10, 1836, so as to increase the number of trustees of Emory College, and authorize the Alumni Association of Emory College to elect from their body three of such trustees, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above mentioned Act, incorporating Emory College, in the county of Newton, be, and it is hereby amended by the addition of three more to the number of trustees of Emory College provided for by said Act and the acts amendatory thereof, and also by providing the mode of electing such additional trustees, so as to allow said additional trustees to be elected by the Alumni Association of Emory College.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said Alumni Association of Emory College be, and they are hereby authorized, at their next meeting, to be held during the annual commencement of Emory College in June, 1887, to elect from among the members of said Association three trustees of Emory College, with terms of office as follows, to wit: One for three years, one for two years, and one for one year, and that after said first election said Association shall have power at each annual meeting of their body to elect in like manner the successor of the one of said trustees whose term of office then expires. The term of office of such trustees shall be three years after the first election, and in case of a vacancy, resulting from death or resignation of any one or more of these three trustees or from other cause, the Alumni Association shall fill the unexpired term or terms by like election at their next annual meeting.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the trustees to be elected as aforesaid shall be entitled to all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties and liabilities of other trustees of Emory College, and that a certificate of their election, signed by the presiding officer, for the time being, of said Alumni Association and attested by the secretary thereof, shall be sufficient evidence thereof.

SEC. 4. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved December 23, 1886.

An Act to authorize the graduates of the Law Department of Emory College to plead and practice in the several courts of law and equity in the State of Georgia, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, any person having from the proper authorities of Emory College, in this State, a diploma of graduation in the Law Department of said College, shall be authorized to plead and practice in all the courts of law and equity in this State without further examination, upon payment of the usual fees, and upon taking the oaths and receiving the license prescribed by law, and said graduates shall have the same rights, privileges and liabilities as are conferred and imposed by law on the graduates of the Law School of the University of Georgia.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved December 12, 1888.

1890.

An Act to amend an Act to incorporate Emory College, in the county of Newton, approved December 10, 1836, and the various Acts amendatory thereof, so as to increase the number of trustees of said College, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above named Act incorporating Emory College, in the county of Newton, and the various acts amendatory thereof, be and are hereby amended by adding eight additional trustees to the present number of trustees of said College, to wit: W. P. Pattillo, Walter B. Hill, E. P. Chamberlin, A. O. McDonell, Charles G. Goodrich, J. P. Williams, Robert Battey and Lemuel Johnson.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all vacancies which may happen by the death, resignation or removal of said eight above-named trustees shall be filled by the Board of Trustees of said College, if by said board it be deemed advisable to fill such vacancies.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 26, 1890.

An Act to amend the charter of Emory College so as to make the resident Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of the said College, and for other purposes.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the charter of Emory College is hereby amended so as to make the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, residing in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of said College.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 16, 1893.

STATUTES OF EMORY COLLEGE.

CHAPTER I.—BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

ARTICLE I.—MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. (1) THE BOARD shall convene annually in Oxford, Ga., at ten o'clock A. M., on the Friday before the second Wednesday in June—i. e., before the Commencement.

(2) Nine members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(3) A member absent from two consecutive meetings, without rendering sufficient excuse, shall forfeit his membership.

(4) The meetings shall be open only to the members and Secretary of the Board, except when others are admitted to give information.

(5) A meeting of the Board may be called at any time, by its President, on special notice by the Secretary to each member, or three weeks' public notice; provided, however, that if a majority of the Board is not present at a special meeting, its action must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting to give it validity.

SEC. 2. (1) There shall be an Executive Committee consisting of five members, to be appointed by the President of the Board, empowered to meet and act in any emergency, to counsel the Faculty if desired, and to supervise, ad interim, the interests of the College.

(2) Their proceedings shall be recorded in the permanent Record Book of the Board, and their acts must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting to give them validity.

ARTICLE II.—ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SECTION 1. (1) THE ORDER OF BUSINESS shall be:

1st. Religious Services.

2d. Call of Roll.

3d. Reading of Minutes.

4th. Appointment of Standing Committees of two or more members:

(1) On Finance and Treasurer's Report.

(2) On Internal Condition and Discipline of the College.

(3) On Condition of Buildings and Grounds.

(4) On Library, Apparatus, Cabinets, and other property.

5th. Report of Faculty.

6th. Report of Treasurer.

7th. Report of Agents.

8th. Report of Special Committees.

9th. Report of Standing Committees.

10th. Unfinished Business or New Business.

11th. Executive Committee Appointed.

12th. Trustees to Organize, Visiting Committee appointed.

13th. Election of Officers for ensuing year.

(2) It is understood that some of these items need be called only on first day of annual meetings; others—as 11th, 12th, and 13th—only on last day; but the above shall be the daily order, so far as applicable to the business of each day.

SEC. 2. This order of Business may be suspended for a defined reason by a two-thirds majority.

ARTICLE III.—OFFICERS AND THEIR DUTIES.

SECTION 1. THE OFFICERS OF THE BOARD shall be a President, Secretary and Treasurer, to be elected annually; provided, however, that the same person may be elected Secretary and Treasurer, at the option of the Board.

SEC. 2. THE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD shall preside over its meetings; maintain order; enforce the rules of the Board; appoint committees not otherwise ordered; call special meetings, under the rule; represent the Board in meetings of stockholders of any company in which it owns stock, and perform such other duties as may be properly assigned him, to promote the interest of the College.

SEC. 3. (1) THE SECRETARY OF THE BOARD shall journalize all its proceedings; shall record them—as also the proceedings of the Executive Committee—fully in permanent form; and shall carefully keep the records and all papers entrusted to his care, subject to order of the Board.

(2) To facilitate his business, if he requires, motions shall be reduced to writing before they are acted upon.

SEC. 4. (1) THE TREASURER OF THE BOARD shall keep a full and intelligible account, in permanent form, of all the transactions of his office—of all moneys paid or given, and of all notes or other evidences of debt or gift coming into his hands—of all moneys paid out by him, and of all notes or assets used or surrendered in liquidation of debts—recording, in every case, dates and names of payer or payee, and on what account paid—whether as College fees, gift, endowment, dividend, interest, building repairs, salaries, incidental expenses, etc., etc.

(2) He shall keep safely and subject to the order of the Board, all moneys and papers entrusted to his care—disbursing its funds, except for incidental expenses, only as the Board or Executive Committee shall have ordered or authorized.

(3) He shall make to the Board, at every annual meeting, a full exhibit of the assets and liabilities, and of the financial condition of the College, showing accurately the receipts and expenditures of the year, and on what accounts, severally, money has been received and disbursed.

(4) He shall give bond, with approved security, for the faithful discharge of his duties; and shall receive compensation for his services.

ARTICLE VI.—ELECTION AND AMENDMENTS.

SECTION 1. ALL ELECTIONS for officers and members of the Board, for members of the Faculty of Instruction, and for nominees to Honorary Degrees, shall be by ballot.

SEC. 2. These By-Laws may be amended at an annual meeting, by a two-thirds' vote, on one day's notice, or by a majority vote, if notice has been given at a previous annual or special meeting.

CHAPTER II.—THE FACULTY OF INSTRUCTION.

ARTICLE I.—CONSTITUTION OF FACULTY.

SECTION 1. (1) THE FACULTY OF INSTRUCTION shall be:

- 1st. A Professor of Moral and Mental Science.
- 2d. A Professor of English Language and Literature.
- 3d. A Professor of Pure Mathematics and Astronomy.
- 4th. A Professor of Applied Mathematics.
- 5th. A Professor of Natural Science.
- 6th. A Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.
- 7th. A Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.

8th. A Professor of Modern Languages, and such other Professors as the Board may hereafter designate; and from among these Professors the Board shall elect a President and Vice-President of the College; while the Faculty shall elect their own Secretary.

(2) A member of the Faculty may hold office for only three years, except by re-election; provided, also, that he may be displaced for cause at any time; or, if elected in the interval of annual meetings the election must be confirmed at the next annual meeting, and his election shall date from that time.

(3) A member of the Faculty may not engage, without the consent of the Board, in any business that will interfere with the regular and punctual discharge of all his official duties.

ARTICLE II.—SPECIFIC DUTIES OF THE FACULTY.

SECTION 1. THE PRESIDENT OF THE COLLEGE or, in his absence, the Vice-President, shall carefully supervise all the interests of the College; shall hold meetings of the Faculty under the rules ordained by themselves, at which he shall preside, and cause their proceedings to be recorded for inspection by the Board; shall promulgate their enactments, and enforce their decisions in cases of discipline; shall preside over all the public exercises of the College; shall confer degrees with consent of the Board; shall see that all the rules and regulations for the government of the College are enforced, and that a uniform discipline is maintained; and shall perform such other duties as shall from time to time be assigned to his office by the Board for the good government and success of the College.

SEC. 2. THE PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE shall give instruction to all the College classes in Composition and Oratory, with such assistance—if he need any—as the Faculty may assign to him.

SEC. 3. THE PROFESSOR OF NATURAL SCIENCE shall be charged—in addition to his class duties—with the care of the apparatus, cabinets of minerals, etc., shall keep them in good order, and report annually their condition.

SEC. 4. The several members of the Faculty shall give faithful instruction in their respective departments; shall unite in a uniform administration of discipline by exacting conformity to all the regulations of the Faculty and Trustees for the government of the College, in their respective recitation rooms and elsewhere; and shall report to the President all cases of neglect, disobedience, or improper conduct that may be deemed to need infliction of penalty.

SEC. 5. Each member shall give whatever aid the Faculty may designate to the classes of another member absent or sick; and shall, under like direction, assist in any class or department—if competent—where assistance may be needed; provided, however, that the regular class duties of any Professor may not be made—without his consent—to exceed four hours passed daily in hearing recitations—or the equivalent thereof.

ARTICLE III.—GENERAL DUTIES OF THE FACULTY.

SECTION 1. (1) The Faculty shall instruct in that course of study and textbooks printed in the latest Annual Catalogue; provided, that the course may be altered or added to at any annual meeting of the Board.

(2) The Faculty may receive students, not candidates for a degree, who possess the requisite qualifications for taking up the studies they elect; provided, they take studies sufficient to profitably occupy their time.

(3) The Faculty shall fix the hours of study, recreation, and recitation; provided, that each class shall be required to devote at least four hours daily to recitations or lectures.

(4) The Faculty being charged individually and collectively with the maintenance of a uniform discipline, and with holding the students to a strict account for the discharge of duty, observance of rule, and good behavior, to promote these ends:

1st. They shall have authority to make and enforce such needed rules and regulations relative to the College police and the behavior of the students, in recitation and elsewhere, as may secure decent deportment, good morals and regularity in habits and practices; provided, such rules, etc., do not conflict with the enactments of the Trustees, and are submitted to the Board for approval at the annual meeting succeeding their enactment.

2d. The Faculty shall, under such minor regulations as they may adopt whereby they may secure justice and fair dealing with the several classes according to age of pupils and time of College residence, hold rigid written examinations of every class, monthly or quarterly, at the discretion of the Professor.

3d. Two circulars, showing the class standing of each student, shall be issued during each College year—one at the close of the Fall and one at the close of the Spring Term.

4th. The Faculty shall be charged, collectively, with the care of the College property, and shall correct any waste, or abuse, or neglect apparent respecting it.

5th. The Faculty shall elect a Librarian, who shall have charge of the Library, under such regulations as they may adopt.

6th. The Faculty shall constitute a Committee on Incidental Expenses, and they shall carefully inspect and audit all charges on said account, and report the same, by items, through the Treasurer to the Board.

7th. The Faculty shall co-operate with the Trustees appointed to organize the Visiting Committee in furnishing said committee all necessary accommodation for their work, and shall offer for its inspection the final examination papers of the respective classes.

When the demerits of any student shall amount within the Fall Term to 75, or in the Spring Term to 150, he shall be liable to the penalties elsewhere provided in the College Statutes; and when a student has been dismissed he shall in no case be readmitted except after a personal interview with his parent or guardian, and on direct application of such parent or guardian, made either in person or by letter, accompanied with satisfactory assurance from the student himself of future good conduct and faithful attention to duty, and then only when in the judgment of the Faculty his longer connection with the College will be of mutual benefit to himself and the institution. The fact that the student is of age, or is paying his own expenses in the College, will work no exception to this rule.

In estimating the value of demerits as they affect the class standing of students, one should be subtracted from the report for every ten demerits. The Secretary of the Faculty shall keep a "Demerit Roll," on which all demerits shall be entered at each meeting of the Faculty.

(5) The average of the marks given to each student at the end of each term, in each study, and in deportment, shall be recorded, and the average of the marks for all the terms of his College residence shall constitute his "final standing."

SEC. 2. (1) A student whose yearly class-standing shall not commend itself to the approval of the Faculty, shall not advance with his class, or graduate.

(2) Twelve members of the Junior Class and twelve members of the Senior Class shall be selected—from both, in the order of their "final class-standing"—to deliver original speeches at Commencement; the Juniors being limited to eight minutes, and the Seniors to ten minutes time, each.

(3) Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third, and Fourth Honors—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their "final class-standing." Of these, two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A.B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B.Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions, an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the B.S. degree. But, when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the honor in question shall be awarded to the candidate for the A.B. degree next to those to whom honors have already been awarded. To the two graduates receiving the First and Second Honors the Faculty shall make the following assignment for commencement:

The Valedictory Address to the graduate receiving the First Honor; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, French, German, or English, as the faculty may direct.

(4) The Senior Class shall be examined ten days before Commencement, and the honors assigned; after which the class may be discharged—except the selected speakers, who shall remain in Oxford, subject to all the laws of the College, except those requiring attendance on recitation.

(5) Ten or more—the number not to exceed fifteen—members of the Sophomore Class shall be selected by the faculty, on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes in oratory at Commencement; the speech of each one to be limited, however, to eight minutes in length.

(6) Ten members of the Freshman Class shall be selected by the Faculty on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes at Commencement.

SEC. 3. (1) The degree of Bachelor of Science shall be ordered conferred by the trustees, on a student who has satisfactorily completed the studies of the Scientific course; that of Bachelor of Arts, on one having so completed the A.B. course; and that of Master of Philosophy, on one having completed the B.Ph. course; and that of Master of Arts on one having completed the Master of Arts course.

(2) The Faculty, through its president, shall present the names of those qualified and entitled, according to law, to those respective degrees, to which they can be admitted only by a vote of the Board, and no diploma shall be issued until fees and dues have been paid or provided for, nor shall a diploma be issued to a student who fails to attend the Commencement of his graduation, unless he is absent by consent of the Faculty for good and sufficient cause shown.

ARTICLE IV.—LAW FOR STUDENTS AND PENALTIES.

SECTION 1. (1) No student shall be admitted to College privileges until he has voluntarily subscribed the following pledge in the Matriculation Book, viz:

“Acting under that sense of honor which always prompts a gentleman to hold his pledged word inviolate, I hereby promise to conform to all the regulations and laws of Emory College, now enacted, or which may be enacted, by the proper authorities, during my connection with the institution; and to yield respect and obedience to all its constitute authorities.”

(2) In the intercourse of the students with each other and with the Faculty, it is expected that they will be governed by those rules of decorum and courtesy which mark the intercourse of gentlemen elsewhere—being respectful to those in authority—kind to fellow-students—considerate of their feelings—despising all paltry tricks upon citizens or servants, officers or students, as unworthy of cultivated gentlemen.

(3) As to moral conduct.—Profanity, gaming, Sabbath-breaking, indecent or vulgar language or conduct, quarreling, fighting, malicious mischief, deceit, falsehood, fraud, dishonesty toward each other or towards tradesmen, licentiousness and like crimes, disqualify a young man for an honorable standing in the College, and will not be tolerated.

SEC. 2. (1) More specifically.—Students are prohibited from attending any ball, theater, horse-race, or cock-fight; from using intoxicating drinks; from playing cards; playing at any game for stakes; from keeping fire-arms or any deadly weapon, a horse, a dog, or a servant; from engaging in anything forbidden by the Faculty; from associating with persons of known bad character; from visiting Covington or other near points beyond the limits of Oxford without permission of some member of the Faculty, and from visiting points more distant without written permission from parents or guardians and the permission of the President of the College; from visiting any place of ill-repute, or at which gaming is practiced, or intoxicating liquors are sold; from engaging in any “match game,” or “intercollegiate” game of football, baseball, whatsoever.

(2) Study hours being appointed for study and recitation must be devoted strictly to study; therefore, students must be punctually present at all their recitations; and they are forbidden during study hours to visit each other's rooms, to engage in play, to be noisy or boisterous, to collect in the halls, public rooms or elsewhere for conversation or any other purpose; to leave the College premises; or to be absent from their respective rooms, after 10 o'clock on any night.

(3) Students must attend morning and evening prayers in the Chapel and public worship in the Church at Oxford on Sunday mornings and evenings—at which services all indecorous conduct is strictly prohibited.

(4) The President, or, if he cannot be seen, any member of the Faculty in any given case, on application—or the Faculty, on special occasions or for special purpose, may relax the stringency of any general rule.

(5) No College Secret Societies shall be formed, unless the Trustees permit it; nor shall students join any outside Secret Society, without permission from the President of the College. The time and place of meeting of such societies shall be under the control of the Faculty.

(6) The occupants of a room shall be held responsible for good order in their room.

(7) A student who behaves improperly in the recitation room may be dismissed from it by the Professor, and the case reported speedily to the President, for such action and punishment as the impropriety may merit.

(8) A student who defaces or injures the College building or other property, shall be held responsible for the damage done.

(9) No student shall leave College, or absent himself from duty on the plea that he has withdrawn from the institution, except with the permission of his parent or guardian, and of the President of the College, under penalty of dismissal; and any student so withdrawn, or one suspended or dismissed, must at once leave Oxford (if a non-resident), except the President otherwise allows.

(10) Every student shall be required to choose, upon his entrance into College, the course he will pursue, and when he has made a choice, he shall not be allowed to change without consent of the Faculty; nor shall he be permitted to undertake studies outside of the course upon which he is placed, without the consent and approval of the President.

(11) All combinations of two or more students to neglect duty, to violate law, or to oppose authority shall be considered an offense of higher grade than isolated acts, and shall be punished accordingly.

(12) These rules apply to students in all departments of the College; and all the rules respecting moral conduct, good order, and study hours apply to sons or wards of citizens of Oxford, members of the College.

SEC. 3. (1) The Faculty shall try all offenders against College law and order, when arraignment has become necessary, and inflict suitable punishment, either (1) private admonition; (2) admonition before the Faculty; (3) admonition before the class; (4) admonition before the College; (5) suspension for a limited time; (6) indefinite suspension; (7) dismissal; or (8) expulsion.

(2) When a student, by general neglect of College duties, shows want of principle, or a spirit of insubordination; or, from habitual idleness and inattention to duty, fails to maintain a fair standing in his class, if he cannot be reformed by kind admonition, the Faculty shall cause the facts in his case to be represented to his father or guardian, with the request that he shall be privately withdrawn from the institution, and if not withdrawn, he may be dismissed.

(3) Nothing indecent, profane, immoral, or otherwise improper or unsuitable to the occasion, shall be spoken from the rostrum, under penalty of suitable punishment; and all students appointed to speak publicly shall exhibit their speeches to the officer whose duty it is to supervise them, and if the speaker attempts to deliver what has been erased, or forbidden, or any offensive matter he may add thereto, he shall be stopped, sent from the rostrum, his honors or degrees denied him, and he expelled for contumacy.

The Educational Loan Fund Association.

During the year 1888, many liberal persons, friends of the College and struggling young men, organized a corporation known as the "EDUCATIONAL LOAN FUND ASSOCIATION OF EMORY COLLEGE." The methods of its work are set forth in its Constitution and By-Laws, which follow:

ARTICLE I.

NAME, OBJECT, AND BUSINESS.

SECTION 1. The corporate name of this organization is "The Educational Loan Fund Association of Emory College," and its general object is to aid deserving young men in obtaining collegiate education in Emory College, Oxford, Ga.

SEC. 2. Its business is to accumulate funds by donations, collections, membership shares, loans, purchase and sale, gifts by will, deed, and otherwise, and various other methods, for the object aforesaid. Also, to borrow and lend money, to accept, hold, and execute trusts and guardianship of minors; also to provide for the tuition, boarding, books, and other educational expenses of students. The said business being entirely for the object aforesaid, it shall afford no personal or corporate profit for its members, and they shall have no personal liability for its debts or acts whatever.

ARTICLE II.

MEMBERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT.

SECTION 1. Membership shall consist of individuals, conferences, churches, societies, and corporations that have each paid into the General Loan Fund at least ten dollars, which is the par value of one share in said Association. A certificate shall be issued to each member, specifying the number of shares paid for at the rate of ten dollars per share, and every member shall be entitled to vote in all Association meetings, in person or by proxy, one vote for each share standing in his name. Each conference, church, society, or corporation holding one or more shares may appoint a representative, who shall cast the vote of his principal.

SEC. 2. The business shall be managed by Trustees acting as a Board of Directors, no fewer than five nor more than thirteen, elected by the Association for one year, and holding until their successors are elected and qualified, who shall have all the powers of the Association, whenever it is not in session, except as they shall be restricted by the laws of the Association. They shall make their own rules and regulations, in which they shall prescribe the duties of Directors and all officers. They shall execute all trusts; they shall have control and management of all moneys, notes, bonds, stocks, and other property, real and personal, of the Association; they shall elect the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, fill all vacancies of unexpired terms, and do all other acts necessary or expedient to promote the objects of the Association. And they may expend not more than ten per cent. of the receipts, interest, and income of the Association annually in defraying the current expenses of its management. They shall provide for an annual meeting of the Association.

ARTICLE III.

ASSETS AND INCOME.

SECTION 1. The assets of the Association, consisting of money, notes, bonds, stocks, real and personal property, and all other property acquired by donations or otherwise from individuals, conferences, churches, societies, or corporations, shall be held and used for the sole educational object set forth in its charter and by-laws. Special gifts or trusts of any nature will be accepted, held and executed for the benefit of students or of the College, as directed by the donors. All assets shall be accounted for in the annual report.

SEC. 2. The income and general receipts of the Association will be derived from contributions by benevolent persons, membership shares, gifts by deed or will, donations by conference, churches, societies, and corporations, and other lawful and proper methods, and they shall be accounted for in the annual report.

SEC. 3. Any District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Georgia, Florida, or other State, may provide for the payment, annually or otherwise, into the General Loan Fund of the Association, of the sum of TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS, or other sum not less than FIFTY DOLLARS; and may thereupon elect in its own way, a student or students to receive the benefit of said contribution in tuition, board, and books, or either, in Emory College according to the sum paid in. This sum so paid in shall be placed permanently in the General Loan Fund, and shall be entered to the loan account of the student or students whom the District Conference shall have elected; and said student, when he is accepted by the Faculty of Emory College, shall have the benefit of said contribution according to the by laws regulating the Loan Fund. Any Annual or Quarterly Conference, or any church, society, corporation, or individual, who shall make a similar contribution to the Loan Fund, shall have the same privileges prescribed for District Conferences.

ARTICLE IV.

LOANS.

SECTION 1. The General Loan Fund shall consist of all subscriptions, collections, donations by wills, deed, or otherwise, of money, stocks, bonds, notes, and other property, real and personal, or mixed, or choses in action, which have been acquired of individuals, churches, societies, and corporations for the purpose of making loans to students as aforesaid; the notes also of students given in repayment of said loans, together with all interest that may accrue on the same, and all income, interest, and profits, and every estate not specially donated otherwise, shall be placed in the General Loan Fund.

SEC. 2. Loans shall be made to young men to aid them in securing collegiate education as follows: No young man shall be a claimant on the Loan Fund until he shall have been accepted by the Faculty as a member, in one of the College classes, and his claim shall cease on the day of his graduation, dismissal, or withdrawal. No student shall receive loans from the Loan Fund above two hundred dollars per annum. The loan shall be paid first on tuition, and afterwards on board, books, and other expenses. The student to whom the loan is made shall execute his promissory notes for the payments of all loans, and these notes shall be framed so as to make the repayments in annual installments of the amount annually borrowed. These notes shall also be made payable so that the first installment of repayment shall be due twelve months after the student, who is the maker of the note, shall have left the College, or shall have been graduated, and the other notes successively annually thereafter. These notes shall bear no interest until after the student leaves the College, when they begin to draw interest at the annual rate of 5 per cent., and if not paid at maturity, they will thereafter draw interest at the rate of 8 per cent. They shall be a part of the General Loan Fund, and when collected by the Association or its assigns, the funds arising therefrom shall remain a part of the Loan Fund perpetually.

SEC. 3 Special account shall be kept of all funds arising from gifts of individuals, or from any other source, which have been given or acquired on any special use or trust, and the same shall be employed according to the terms of the trust or wishes of the donor, whether it be for loans or for donations to students or to Emory College, or to any department, chair, or school of said College.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS.

These By-Laws may be amended at a regular meeting of said Trustees or Directors by a two-thirds' vote, previous notice for thirty days having been given of the amendment proposed.

THE

STONE MOUNTAIN ROUTE.

GEORGIA RAILROAD

IS THE

GREAT STEEL THOROUGHFARE

BETWEEN THE

East and West,

South and Southwest.

Its geographical situation is such that it passes through the Eastern middle section of Georgia, the most fertile and productive section of the State, as well as the most thickly settled section. There are numerous towns and villages along the line. Among others we may mention Conyers, Covington, Social Circle, Madison, Greensboro, Crawfordville (the home of the late Hon. Alex H. Stephens), Thompson, and Harlem, while its branch lines give communication to all sections of the country, from Washington, Warrenton, Sparta, and Milledgeville.

If you desire to locate in the most healthful section of Georgia, you will find it on the Georgia Railroad.

ADMISSION.

The Fall Term begins the third Wednesday in September; the Spring Term the first school day in January.

The first three days in each term are given mainly to examinations for admission into College, and it is very important that applicants be present on the opening day. Failure to be thus on hand is a hindrance to the student and an inconvenience to the Faculty.

Applicants for admission to the Freshman Class, A.B. Course, will be examined in English Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra (through equations of the First Degree), Geometry (through Book I.), Cæsar's Gallic Wars, Cicero's Orations, Goodwin's Greek Grammar, and Leighton's Greek Lessons, or the equivalents of them. Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B.Ph. Course, will be examined in the same, except the Greek, and candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B.S. Course, will be examined in all except the Latin and Greek.

Candidates for admission into classes above the Freshman will be examined, in addition to the studies named above, on the studies already completed by the class into which they seek to be admitted.

A thorough knowledge of the English, Greek, and Latin Grammars and of the fundamental principles of Mathematics cannot be too strongly urged. In Algebra, especial attention should be given to Factoring, Greatest Common Measure, Least Common Multiple, and Fractions; few students enter college properly drilled in these matters. Too many students attempt to enter college with inadequate preparation upon these subjects, and bring embarrassment to themselves and difficulties to their instructors which might be avoided by more careful, systematic instruction while in training for a college course. Special attention is directed to thorough preparation in English, Greek, and Latin, particularly by applicants for classes higher than Freshman.

Students who may wish to receive instruction in particular departments, without pursuing either regular course in full or becoming candidates for a degree, will be allowed to do so, provided they have the preparation requisite for successful work with the regular classes in these departments, and will take work enough to suitably engage their time.

After a satisfactory examination, each applicant will be furnished with a copy of the laws of the College, and, after having had time to read them carefully, will be required to matriculate, thereby pledging himself to observe college law during his continuance in the institution.

Satisfactory testimonials of good character will be required in all cases, and applicants coming from another college or academy must present certificates of honorable dismission.

A Joint Committee from the faculties of Mercer University, the University of Georgia and this institution have under consideration uniform conditions of entrance into the three institutions. The report of the committee is not complete, and will not be operative until 1898. The requirements in English have been agreed on, and being substantially the same as now operative at Emory College, are given below as expository of the foregoing:

1. GRAMMAR.—Thorough knowledge of technical English Grammar, including sentence analysis.

2. COMPOSITION.—Ability to write fair English. At least one year's work in original composition, weekly exercises, is earnestly recommended.

3. READING.—General knowledge of the contents of at least three good English works. No examination to be held on reading, but student must know something of some of the best works of English and American authors.

SUB-FRESHMAN DEPARTMENT.

The authorities of Emory College recognize the conspicuous lack of well-equipped schools for secondary instruction in our country, and seek to do what they can to supply the want by maintaining a Sub-Freshman Department. This department is in charge of Professor W. B. Griffin, Jr., and Professor Edgar H. Johnson. It is designed to accomplish the following important ends:

1. The best school in the country for the thorough preparation of young men for the regular college course. Very many of our patrons find it necessary to send their sons from home to be prepared for college. To them we offer advantages they can hardly find elsewhere. Their sons will be taught the studies they need to master in order to enter the regular college classes; they will be taught thoroughly and in less time than will be necessary in schools not specifically devoted to such work.

2. There are hundreds of young men who, for various reasons, cannot take a regular college course; some because they cannot meet the cost; some because they feel they are too old to afford the time; some because they desire only a "practical education." Many young men of this class need to be perfected in their elementary studies, as Grammar, Geography, and Arithmetic.

But they need to review their studies where they will have the advantages furnished by a college. They want access to large libraries and the opportunities afforded by debating societies; also opportunity to study some parts of Natural Science, in connection with lectures and laboratory work. Some wish to add a few of the studies of the English Department of the college course. To such young men, Emory College, with its Sub-Freshman Department, offers advantages and opportunities that are rarely found.

3. Those who need to extend their English studies in securing a thorough business education will find here what they need.

The course of study requires two years for its completion, and is set forth on the next page.

THE COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

In the collegiate department full and varied courses of study are offered. Special attention is invited to the following points concerning the work proposed :

1. There is no branch of useful learning the study of which may not now be prosecuted as profitably and successfully at Emory College as at any other American college, and the variety of courses opened is sufficient to meet the tastes and wants of all. It is not proposed to do the work of a university. Institutions having less income than is required for university work, yet undertaking collegiate work by university methods, are universities only in name—"fiat" universities. They mislead and injure students. Emory College proposes to do the best collegiate work.

2. The courses of study in English and the Bible are required for every degree at Emory College. Our mother tongue and our holy religion occupy the first place in the work of this institution.

3. The work proposed in the department of History and Political Economy, taken in connection with the study of Greek and Roman History in the Classical Department, and the study of the Bible, is one of the fullest and most beautiful courses of historical study to be found in an American college.

4. The courses in Natural Science, and Pure and Applied Mathematics are very full, and the satisfactory completion of the Bachelor of Science course will qualify the student for all the work of civil engineering, chemical analysis, etc.

5. The value of the modern languages is recognized by full and attractive courses.

6. While Emory College recognizes fully the worth of scientific study and the value of the modern languages, it refuses to yield to an unwise popular clamor against the classics. No student can receive the degree of A.B. from this institution who has not satisfactorily completed the course in Latin and Greek, as well as English, and at least one of the modern languages. The literature of the Hebrews, Greeks, and Romans have entered vitally into our own civilization, and familiarity with them is reckoned of the highest value by the authorities of this College.

SELECTED COURSES LEADING TO NO DEGREE.

There are many young men who for various reasons cannot take a full course and receive a degree. But a year or more in college, pursuing such studies as may be found best suited to their wants is of great value to them. For the benefit of such persons, the Board of Trustees has made provision by the following statute: "The Faculty may receive students, not candidates for a degree, who possess the requisite qualifications for taking up the studies they elect; provided, they take studies sufficient to profitably occupy their time."

Of course, the work of such students must conform to the schedule of lectures and recitations arranged for the regular courses.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS.

In connection with the institution, a TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS has been established. It is not designed to be a theological seminary, but such a school as is implied by the name, and in which may be met the wants of our young ministers who, before entering upon their conference course, desire a special preparation not offered by the usual college curriculum.

The course of study covers a period of two years, and embraces thorough study of the English Bible, Logic, Rhetoric, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Homiletics, Church History, Systematic Theology, and such introductory study of Greek and Hebrew as will prepare the student to use intelligently the standard commentaries on the Old and New Testaments. The following schedule sets forth the work proposed:

FIRST YEAR.

FALL TERM.

1. English—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. Logic—Jevons'. 3. English Bible—Steele's Outlines and Lectures. 4. Elocution. 5. Church History—Fisher's. 6. Mental Philosophy—Mahan's.

SPRING TERM.

1. English—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. Moral Philosophy—Robinson's Principles and Practice of Morality. 3. English Bible—Steele's

Outlines, with Lectures. 4. Elocution. 5. Church History—Fisher's. 6. Evidences of Christianity—Fisher's.

SECOND YEAR.

(Both Terms.)

1. Systematic Theology—Wakefield's, with Lectures. 2. English Bible—Steele's Outlines with Lectures. 3. Church History—McTyeire's History of Methodism. 4. Homiletics—Austin Phelps's Theory of Preaching, with Lectures. 5. New Testament, Greek—Wescott and Hort's Text. 6. Hebrew—Manheimer's Complete Grammar. Reading: Selections from the Historical Books of the Old Testament.

The Literary Societies connected with the College are open to the students of the Training School, and the weekly discussions therein will do much to fit young preachers for their life-work. Besides the valuable libraries of these societies, the library of the College will be of great use to the students in Theology. It is especially rich in theological literature, and no library in the South, perhaps, contains so many rare books bearing on Methodist history.

In connection with the College are three of the largest houses in Oxford devoted to the use of students of small means. Board in these halls can be had as low as $8.00 a month. Board with private families can be secured at from $10.00 to $15.00 a month. No tuition is charged for the course in Theology. An annual fee of $10.00 to cover library fee and the incidental expenses of the department is charged. The total cost of a year's work in the Training School may, therefore, be stated approximately, as follows:

Library and incidental fee-----	$ 10 00
Board in helping hall-----	75 00
Light and laundry-----	10 00
Books-----	15 00
Total-----	$110 00
Matriculation fee, payable once on entrance -----	$5 00

A. M. COURSE.

A candidate for the degree of A.M. must have received the degree of A.B. from this College, or from some other institution of learning at which the requirements for A.B. are, in the opinion of the faculty, equal to those of this College. In addition, the candidate must complete at least one of the following groups of studies, and stand a satisfactory examination upon the same:

I. MODERN LANGUAGES.

English—Cook's Seiver's Anglo-Saxon Grammar; Bright's Anglo-Saxon Gospel; Ten Brink's Early English Literature; Skeat's Specimens of English (1374—1579); Saintsbury's Elizabethan Literature. Essay: Rise and Development of English Drama. French—Whitney's French Grammar; any four plays of Molière, Racine, or Corneille; any one of the following: Dumas' La Tulipe Noire, Staël's Le Directoire, Souvestre's Le Philosophe sous les Toits, Saintain's Picciola; Saintsbury's French Literature; sight translations of a continuous passage of English into French; a short essay in French on any of the author's mentioned above. German—Whitney's German Grammar; any four plays of Schiller, Goethe, or Lessing; any one of the following: Klopstock's Messiah, Goethe's Faust, Schiller's Geschichte des 30—Jaehrigen Krieges, Mrs. Conant's German Literature; sight translation of a continuous passage of English into German; a short essay in German on any of the author's mentioned above. The English and either the French or German is the required course in this group.

II. ANCIENT LANGUAGES.

Greek—Euripides's Medea; Plato Contra Atheos; Aristophanes's Clouds; Aristophanes's Politics (Books I.—IV.). History of Greek Philosophy; Grote's History of Greece. Latin—Lucretius De Rerum Naturæ (two books); Satires of Juvenal (two books); Review of Roman History and Geography. An approved Essay on the Influence of the Roman or Greek Language and Literature on the Language and Literature of Modern Nations.

III. PHILOSOPHY.

Philosophy—Metaphysics of Sir William Hamilton; History of Philosophy, by Schwegler; Theory of Morals, by Janet. Logic—Fowler's Elements of Inductive and Deductive Logic. Political Economy—Fawcett's. Evidences of Christianity—Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief, Fisher. An approved Philosophical Dissertation.

IV. MATHEMATICS.

Algebra—Todhunter's Theory of Equations to Symmetric Functions. Analytical Geometry—Transcendental Curves. Differential Calculus—Method of Tracing Curves, Determining Concavity, Convexity and Singular Points. Differential of an Arc or Surface of a Plane Curve—of Surfaces and Volumes of Revolution. Integral Calculus—Rectification of Plane Curves; Quadrature of Surfaces of Revolution; Curvature of Solids of Revolution. The subjects and texts herein enumerated are given as a suggestive outline of the work and not as an inflexible course. In consequence of the mathematical elections allowed in Senior year for A.B. degree, the A.M. course for each candidate will be arranged according to his needs. But in addition to the full undergraduate course, a knowledge of the theory of equations, advanced plane, analytical geometry, and solid geometry will be required. An approved Mathematical Essay.

V. NATURAL SCIENCE.

Tyndall "On Sound"; Tyndall's "Heat as a Mode of Motion"; Lommel's "The Nature of Light"; Davis's "Elementary Meteorology"; Cook's "Chemical Philosophy," or Caldwell's "Qualitative Analysis; Schellen's "Spectrum Analysis"; Stewart's "The Conservation of Energy"; Le Conte's "Elements of Geology" (or an equivalent study); Draper's "Physiology."

The equivalents of these studies for any application shall be designated by the Professor.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

By special act of the Legislature, graduates of this department receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws, and their diplomas admit them to the bar in Georgia without examination.

The course of study may be completed in one year, divided into two terms—the first term beginning with the college term in September, and the second ending with the commencement in June.

COURSE OF STUDY.

FIRST TERM.

Blackstone's Commentaries; Smith on Contracts; Pollock on Torts; Political Economy, Jevons'.

SECOND TERM.

Adams's Equity; Best on Evidence; Stephens on Pleading; Code of Georgia; Parliamentary Law, Roberts; Constitutional History of United States, Woodrow Wilson.

Tuition fee for Entire Course, $70.00.

For further information, apply to JUDGE CAPERS DICKSON, Oxford, Ga.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Many students expecting to enter college in the fall find themselves deficient in one or more studies—deficiencies which can be made up easily with the aid of a good teacher during the summer. To meet the wants of such students, as well as the needs of teachers in the common schools who desire a fuller acquaintance with some subjects, the Summer School was organized. It affords the best instruction at low rates. Tuition $5.00 per month. Board can be secured in private houses at Oxford, during the summer, at $10.00 a month.

DEGREES.

The regular degrees conferred by this institution are: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Laws, and Master of Arts. They are conferred upon students who complete the courses leading to these degrees, and are never complimentary.

EXAMINATIONS.

There are quarterly (or more frequently, at the discretion of the instructor) written examinations of all classes. In addition to the regular studies of the course, these examinations embrace also once a year the elementary studies—Geography, Arithmetic, and English Grammar, thus constantly refreshing the memory on fundamentals. All examinations are conducted in writing.

VACATIONS.

 There is but one vacation—extending from Commencement Day, second Wednesday in June, to third Wednesday in September. The college year is continuous—from third Wednesday in September to Commencement Day, except a recess of one week—Christmas. Experience proves the one vacation plan incomparably better for all concerned. By this arrangement many young men are enabled to make money enough during vacation to pay their expenses during the next college year. The President of the College helps them to find profitable employment.

A CORNER IN THE LIBRARY.

A WORD TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

In view of the unavoidably evil effect of all absences, whether at the beginning or at any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly requests that parents and guardians will in no way encourage or approve such absences without very urgent reasons. This is to be especially remarked in this day of Expositions and the like. One day off at such a gathering distracts the mind for many days, not to mention the moral effect. Cheap railroad rates cannot pay for the damage done. We are unwilling, even with the consent of parents for students to attend intercollegiate games. The excitements and immorality inseparable from these brutal sports so injuriously affect a student, this institution entirely forbids them.

When any student, from habitual idleness or inattention to duty, is found flagging in his work, the cause is kindly inquired into, and if, after suitable attempts to reform him, he is incorrigible, the President will write to his parent or guardian, inform him of the facts, and request his withdrawal without notoriety or disgrace.

It is urged upon patrons to consider the importance to the student of beginning upon the first day of the term in which he enters. Examinations for admission to College begin on the day each term opens. (See Calendar.)

EXPENSES, ETC.

The total cost of a year at Emory is as low as that of any first-class college on this continent—lower than most. It has not seemed wise to the authorities of the institution to weaken its teaching force in order to make tuition free to all, but rather to grant such help to those only who really need it. When any insufficiently endowed college offers free tuition, it does so through the device of a delusive fee-bill almost the equivalent of the usual tuition, or by weakening its teaching force by consolidating chairs. In other words, such a college deceives its patrons with a pretense of cheapness, or defrauds them with superficial work. Emory College prefers to require those who are able to pay tuition, that those who are not able may be helped, and that they all may enjoy the best advantages.

But while it advertises no “free tuition,” board (a much larger item than tuition in a college course) is so low in Oxford, and the expenses arising from the social surroundings of the College (which cannot be stated in a catalogue, but are often heavily felt by students of other institutions) are so small that the annual expense of a student at Emory College, exclusive of clothing, can be brought within $200. Not a few students get through on less. The following schedule gives the rate of board, tuition, books, etc.

Matriculation fee (payable only on entering College), $5.00.

The sons of itinerant preachers are not charged tuition in the College classes. This rule applies to all the Annual Conferences. The sons of pastors of churches other than Methodist are granted the same privileges.

BOARD.

Board can be had in private families at $10 to $15 per month. The highest board in Oxford is $50 for three months, and includes furnished room, table, lights, fuel, and servants' attention. Board in Helping Halls is $8 per month.

HELPING HALLS.

Knowing well that there are thousands of young men in the country who have good minds, good conscience, true ambition, and little money—young men who for the most part work their way—the College, so far back as 1876, began in a little six-room cottage the experiment of procuring cheap board for those who needed it. In the Fall Term of that year ten young men began housekeeping in the rented house. Among them were Prof. W. T. Dumas, who originated the plan; the Rev. Kenneth McLain, of blessed memory; the Rev. George Loehr, of the same class (now of the China mission), and others who are now in different fields doing good work as educated men. For three years the experiment was conducted in the little cottage. At the end it was proved to all who had knowledge of the facts: (1) that cheap and good board was in the reach of poor boys; (2) that in health, morals, social standing—among students and citizens—and scholarship, the “Hall” boys ranked with the best. From the beginning until the current college year not less than eight hundred young men of limited means have found in the "Helping Halls" the solution of their problem, and have been enabled to take a full or partial college course. Every year the "Hall" men have won distinctions—class honors, prize medals, or literary society positions.

THREE OF THE LARGEST AND BEST HOUSES in Oxford are used as "Helping Halls." Good men and women have furnished the means to procure these buildings for this purpose.

The "Helping Halls" are under the direct control of the President of the College; he appoints the "managers," who are responsible to him. The following principles are observed in determining the question of admittance: 1. No little boys are admitted unless with older brothers or some mature friend who may occupy a brother's place. 2. None are admitted who do not need this sort of aid. 3. No student without a good showing as to upright character is admitted.

Incalculable good has been accomplished through the "Helping Halls." The experiment has been long and thoroughly and successfully made.

Not a few of the "Hall" men make enough selling books, teaching school, etc., during vacation months—July, August, and September—to pay their expenses during the college year. A great number make enough, with a little help from home, to solve their problem.

Among the "Hall" men of the present year are a number looking to the ministry.

Itinerant preachers with short salaries will find at Emory, with the "Helping Halls" and free tuition, a chance to educate their sons. Many who get help to make their way the first year find themselves able to go on.

The following has been the order of management for the college year 1895-96:

Young L. G. Harris Hall—Rev. D. B. Cantrell, Manager.

Marvin Hall—O. L. Callahan, Manager.

Andrew Hall—Rev. R. E. Wright, Manager.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION, ETC.

Emory College is located in the village of Oxford, Newton county, Ga., forty miles east of Atlanta, one mile from the Georgia Railroad. A street-car line runs to the depot. Oxford is proverbially healthy, and emphatically the student's home. The village is on a high granite ridge, with no possible local cause of sickness. Its literary, social, and religious advantages are unexcelled. By special act of the Legislature drinking and gambling saloons are excluded from the town and from within one mile of its corporate limits. The quiet seclusion of the place invites to study, and prevailing influences around favor the formation of good habits and the development of a true manhood.

Emory College is the joint property of the North Georgia, South Georgia, and Florida Annual Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. While it is Methodist in its organization, it is not exclusive or sectarian, numbering among its patrons members of all Protestant denominations.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The authorities of this institution are unwilling to take boys and young men away from the influences and restraints of home at a period in life when passion is strongest and habits are forming, without bringing to bear the most direct and intentional effort to secure their religious well-being. Accordingly, while in the exercises and instruction of the College there is nothing sectarian, a pronounced Christian life is urged upon all the students. The Bible is systematically studied by every class, from Freshman to Senior. If Grecian and Roman mythologies are thought necessary for classical culture, the law of Moses and the Gospel of Christ are more necessary to Christian culture. So Emory College teaches, and observes to do.

Every College-day, morning and evening, prayers are held in the Chapel, at which all students are required to be present. The services consist of reading the Scriptures, singing, and prayer. The Chapel is supplied with an organ and suitable hymn-books (containing both words and music), and the Chapel service is a pleasure and blessing to all.

Every student is required to attend church twice on the Sabbath.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two flourishing literary societies—the Few and the Phi Gamma—connected with the College. These societies date their origin almost with that of the College itself. The Phi Gamma was organized in 1837, and the Few in 1839. Each society has its own building, containing debating halls, reading-room and library, etc., comfortably and handsomely furnished. The library of the Phi Gamma Society contains 2,500 volumes; that of the Few Society, 3,000 volumes; representing a wide range of the best literature. The reading-rooms are supplied with the prominent journals and reviews of the day, besides valuable files of those of earlier date, some as far back as 1792.

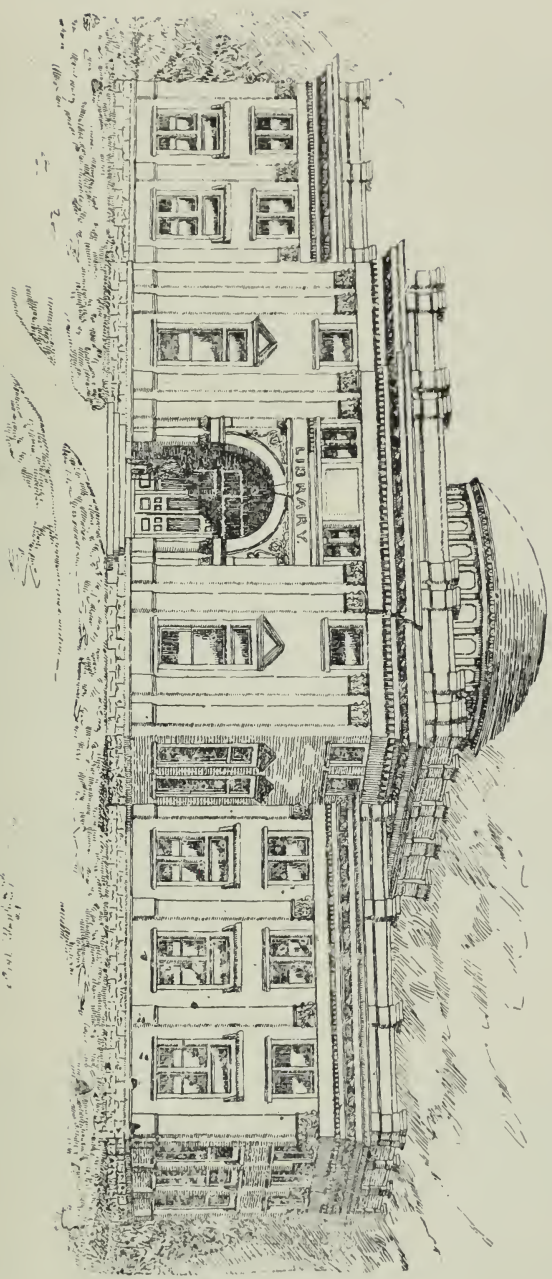

The active membership embraces a majority of the students of the College, while the total lists run up into thousands.

The weekly discussions of these societies offer the best facilities to the students to become ready speakers and able debaters, and are regarded as invaluable aids to the instruction and culture furnished by the College.

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY.

Contains about 20,000 volumes, and the collection is enlarged and improved constantly. Recently the valuable library of the late Dr. W. P. Harrison has come into the possession of the College, which, added to the large collection previously owned, makes the library second to none in the Southern States. The library is open every day, and is furnished comfortably for work.

A fire-proof building for the Library is in course of erection, a cut of which appears on the opposite page. When completed it will furnish ample room for 75,000 volumes, and will be one of the most beautiful and admirably arranged library buildings in the South: It is hoped it will be rapidly filled with the best books. In this work the efficient co-operation of the friends of the institution is invoked. The alumni—ever loyal to Emory College—are particularly requested to lend their invaluable aid in greatly enlarging and improving our collection of useful works. The alumni can give to our Library, from their private collections, thousands of useful books. Other institutions have been enriched in this way. Many valuable books came to the Library in this way during the past year, and from the library fees of students purchases are made each year of the best books that are published. It is proposed to collect such a library as will meet all the wants of young men who are seeking the highest literary culture.

The alumni and the friends of the College will confer a great favor upon the institution by sending to the Librarian any works which they may be able to spare, or by making contributions of money for the purchase of books.

It is particularly desired to gather a large collection of books bearing upon Southern history, and especially that of Georgia. During the past year the Library has received additions of this sort of a most valuable character. It now contains all the digests of the laws of Georgia, and all the acts of the Legislature from 1850 to 1890. The acts prior to 1850 and since 1890 are earnestly desired. Bound copies of newspapers published before and during the war are very valuable to the Library.

Those who can spare books, and who may hesitate, supposing that duplicates are already in the Library, can readily ascertain the facts in the case by dropping a note to the Librarian, Professor H. H. Stone, Oxford, Ga. Duplicates of good books are as welcome as they are useful.

A NEW CHAIR.

During the past year the Alumni Association established a new chair in the college—the Chair of History and Political Economy. Professor J. E. Dickey was called to this work, and has during the first year of its existence discharged most efficiently the duties of the position.

In this connection justice requires to be said that the Alumni of Emory College have rallied to the support of their Alma Mater with wonderful unanimity and zeal. Within the last seven years they have added $50,000 to the permanent endowment of the institution, besides establishing the Chair of History and Political Economy.

THE MINERAL CABINET.

The Mineral Cabinet is very large, containing several thousands of specimens collected with care during the last thirty years, and embracing many of the most beautiful, perfect, and valuable specimens of crystallization and other mineral forms from the most important localities in Europe and America.

The collection has grown so large and interesting it has attracted the attention of many people, through whose thoughtful generosity it steadily grows.

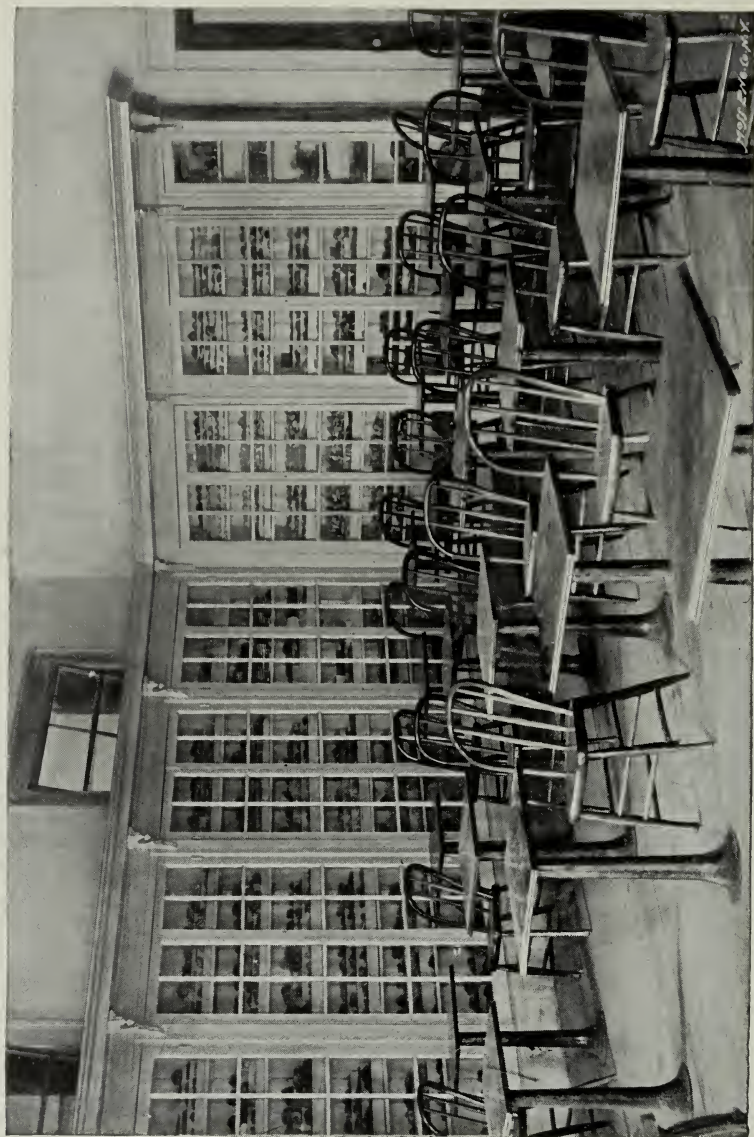

We solicit the co-operation of our friends in bringing together a still larger and more perfect collection of mineralogical, biological, and other specimens that may be useful in the study of natural science.

THE MUSEUM.

Through the gifts of Dr. Young J. Allen, Colonel C. P. Crawford, Rev. E. A. Gray, Bishop A. G. Haygood, and others, a most interesting collection of objects of historical interest has been made. The collection was greatly enriched recently by two shipments from Professor W. P. Turner, of the class of 1889, now resident in Japan.

APPARATUS.

Important additions are made annually to the Chemical, Mathematical and Philosophical Apparatus. The College was never so well furnished in these departments. Very special attention is given to teaching the students the methods of conducting experiments for themselves. This is a marked feature in the Scientific Department of the College.

A SECTION OF THE MUSEUM.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The College is indebted to the following persons for valuable contributions to the Library, Museum, and Mineral Cabinet during the past year: HON. J. M. PACE, MR. J. P. SIMMONS, DR. NATHAN C. BROOKS, REV. J. J. ANSLEY, REV. J. P. WARDLAW, MR. A. P. RIVES, MRS. GEORGE H. PATTILLO, The Publishing House of Methodist Episcopal Church, South, REV. U. G. HARDEMAN, HON. HENRY G. TURNER.

HONORS, MEDALS, ETC.

Students are incited to diligence and fidelity by awards of Honors, Medals, etc., and no damage is done, it is believed, to moral and spiritual character.

The Honors are awarded under the following regulations, taken from the Statutes of the College :

Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third and Fourth Honor—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their “final class-standing.” Of these two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A.B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B.Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the B.S. Degree. But when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the Honor in question shall be awarded to a candidate for the A.B. degree next to those to whom Honors have already been awarded. To the graduates receiving the first and second Honors, the Faculty shall make the following assignments for Commencement:

To the graduate receiving First Honor, the Valedictory Address; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor, the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, Greek, German, French or English.

A Roll of Honor is published at Commencement on which appear the names of all those students the average of whose work is graded above 9, 10 being the standard of perfect work.

The following Prizes and Medals are offered for excellence in the various branches of study :

Sub-Freshman Medal. The Adjunct Professors in charge of the Sub-Freshman Class gives a Gold Medal to the member of the Class who is adjudged to have excelled in Declamation at Commencement.

The “Freshman Medal.” The Faculty gives a Medal to be awarded to that member of the Freshman Class excelling in Declamation at Commencement.

The Sophomore Declamation Medal. A Gold Medal is given for the best Declamation by a Sophomore speaker at Commencement.

The "Junior Medal." A Gold Medal is offered for the best oration by any Junior Speaker at Commencement:

The "Senior Medal." The Faculty offers a Gold Medal for the best Graduating Oration by any Senior Speaker, "both matter and manner to be considered."

The "Boynton Prize Medal." The late Mr. CHARLES E. BOYNTON, of Atlanta, Ga., endowed a Medal for the best Essay written by any member of the Junior or Senior Class.

The "Palmer Prize Medal." Mr. L. D. PALMER, an alumnus of the Class of 1855 has established a Gold Medal for excellence in Mathematics.

The "Bigham Medal." REV. R. J. BIGHAM, D.D., an alumnus of the Class of 1877, has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Freshman Class.

The "Phinizy Medal." LEONARD PHINIZY, Esq., of Augusta, Ga., has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Sophomore Class.

The "Reppard Greek Medal." MR. R. B. REPPARD, of Savannah, Ga., has endowed a Medal for excellence in Greek.

The "Latin Medal." An alumnus of the College offers a Medal for excellence in Greek.

The "Pasco Prize Medal." The Rev. F. Pasco, of the Florida Conference, has endowed a Gold Medal for excellence in the Department of Natural Science.

The "J. B. Johnston Prize." REV. J. B. Johnston, Dawson, Ga., offers a prize of $25.00 in gold for the best work in the department of English Language and Literature.

ACT OF INCORPORATION AND OTHER STATUTES.

An Act to Incorporate Emory College, to be located in the County of Newton.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, George F. Pierce, Charles H. Saunders, David P. Hillhouse, William P. Graham, Seaborn Jones, Joseph A. Eve, Iverson L. Graves, Lucius Wittich, and John Parks be, and they are, hereby appointed trustees of a college, to be established in the county of Newton, in this State, which shall be known and called by the name of Emory College.

Sec. 2. The aforesaid trustees, and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to make such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary for the government of said college; provided, such laws and regulations be not repugnant to the constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 3. The said trustees and their successors in office, under the name and style of "Trustees of Emory College," may use a common seal, and shall be, and are hereby declared to be capable in law or equity, of suing and being sued; pleading and being impleaded; contracting and being contracted with; and of using all means necessary and lawful for securing and defending any money, property, debts, or demands which do now, or may hereafter belong to said college; for receiving all grants, gifts, bequests, devises, or conveyances of property of all descriptions whatever.

Sec. 4. The said trustees and their successors in office shall be entrusted with, and entitled as such, to have and hold all manner of property, both real and personal, all donations, grants, gifts, bequests, legacies, privileges, and immunities whatever, which may now belong to said college, or which may hereafter be made or conveyed to it; and no misnomer of the corporation shall prevent its rights from vesting whenever it shall appear or can be ascertained that it was the intention of the party or parties, to sell, give or bequeath any right or interest to the said corporation.

Sec. 5. The said trustees and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to appoint and remove all officers connected with the said college, and to compel them to give bond and security, according to the by-laws of the institution; and that the said board of trustees and their successors in office, shall have power and authority to remove any member of their board for the violation of their by-laws; provided, that no member of the board shall be removed until he shall be sufficiently indemnified against all responsibilities for the payment of money which he or they may have incurred as trustee or trustees aforesaid.

Sec. 6. The President of the said college, with the consent of the professors and trustees, shall have power and authority to confer and award all such honors, degrees, and licenses as are usually conferred in colleges and universities.

Sec. 7. When any vacancy shall happen in said board of trustees, the Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, when in conference assembled, shall have power and authority to fill such vacancies as shall or may happen, by the death, resignation, or removal of Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, and George F. Pierce; and any vacancies that may happen by the death, resignation, or removal of any person, or persons appointed by the said conference to succeed them from time to time, and that the certificate of the presiding officer of said conference, for the time being, attested by the secretary thereof, shall be sufficient evidence of said appointment, and that all other vacancies be filled by the said board of trustees.

Sec. 8. Should the said trustees, or a majority of them, believe that the prospective interest of the aforesaid college will be increased by locating it in any county in this State, other than the county of Newton, they shall be, and are hereby empowered to fix the site of said college in any county in this State, anything in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

JOSEPH DAY, Speaker House of Representatives.

ROBERT M. ECHOLS, President of Senate.

Assented to December 10, 1836.

WILLIAM SCHLEY,

Governor.

1845.

Resolution authorizing His Excellency, the Governor, to furnish the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, with complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, in General Assembly convened, That His Excellency, the Governor, be requested to deliver to the Librarian of the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, or order, two complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives, or as many of the numbers of said Journals as can be conveniently spared without breaking the sets now in the Public Library of the State.

Assented to December 8, 1845.

An Act to exempt Emory College and other Colleges in this State from taxation and to place them on the same footing with the University of Georgia.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the passage of this Act, that all the property of Emory College and other colleges in this State shall be exempt from taxation, and shall be upon the same footing with the University of Georgia.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all the laws and parts of laws militating against this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved February 21, 1850.

An Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia and to provide the necessary means for the same.

Whereas, It is a matter of primary importance that Georgia should have native educated teachers for the instruction of the children of the State; and whereas, there are many indigent maimed soldiers in the State, under thirty years, who, by reason of the loss of limbs, are deprived of the ability to perform physical labor; and whereas, it is a holy and patriotic duty to provide in the best manner possible for those unfortunate patriots; for remedy whereof:

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That all indigent maimed soldiers of the State of Georgia, under the age of thirty years old, be educated at the University of the State of Georgia, at Mercer University, at Emory College, at Oglethorpe University, and at Bowden College, free of charge for tuition, books, board and clothing, until completion of their legitimate term.

Sec. 2. That upon the application, accompanied with proper vouchers of any indigent maimed soldier, that he is of the class above specified, to the trustees of said universities and colleges, they shall forthwith receive him into said institution, and give him all the benefits of the same, upon the applicant entering into a written obligation, upon his honor, to teach, when he shall have completed his collegiate course, the same number of years in Georgia he may have been in said universities or colleges.

Sec. 3. That, for the purpose of effectually carrying into efficient operation the provisions of this Act, that His Excellency, the Governor, be, and is hereby authorized, should there not be funds provided for in the Treasury, to issue to the trustees of said universities and colleges the bonds of the State, payable at such times and in such manner as he may deem best, to an amount sufficient to accomplish and carry into effectual operation the provisions of this Act; Provided, the State will not pay more than three hundred dollars per annum for each beneficiary under this Act.

Approved December 18, 1866.

An Act to repeal an Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia, approved December 18, 1866.

Section 1. Be it enacted, That the Act entitled an Act to educate indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia be, and the same is, hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. Repeals conflicting laws.

Approved March 19, 1869.

1886.

An Act to amend "An Act to incorporate Emory College, in the county of Newton," approved December 10, 1836, so as to increase the number of trustees of Emory College, and authorize the Alumni Association of Emory College to elect from their body three of such trustees, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above mentioned Act, incorporating Emory College, in the county of Newton, be, and it is hereby amended by the addition of three more to the number of trustees of Emory College provided for by said Act and the acts amendatory thereof, and also by providing the mode of electing such additional trustees, so as to allow said additional trustees to be elected by the Alumni Association of Emory College.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said Alumni Association of Emory College be, and they are hereby authorized, at their next meeting, to be held during the annual commencement of Emory College in June, 1887, to elect from among the members of said Association three trustees of Emory College, with terms of office as follows, to wit: One for three years, one for two years, and one for one year, and that after said first election said Association shall have power at each annual meeting of their body to elect in like manner the successor of the one of said trustees whose term of office then expires. The term of office of such trustees shall be three years after the first election, and in case of a vacancy, resulting from death or resignation of any one or more of these three trustees or from other cause, the Alumni Association shall fill the unexpired term or terms by like election at their next annual meeting.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the trustees to be elected as aforesaid shall be entitled to all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties and liabilities of other trustees of Emory College, and that a certificate of their election, signed by the presiding officer, for the time being, of said Alumni Association and attested by the secretary thereof, shall be sufficient evidence thereof.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved December 23, 1886.

An Act to authorize the graduates of the Law Department of Emory College to plead and practice in the several courts of law and equity in the State of Georgia, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, any person having from the proper authorities of Emory College, in this State, a diploma of graduation in the Law Department of said College, shall be authorized to plead and practice in all the courts of law and equity in this State without further examination, upon payment of the usual fees, and upon taking the oaths and receiving the license prescribed by law, and said graduates shall have the same rights, privileges and liabilities as are conferred and imposed by law on the graduates of the Law School of the University of Georgia.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved December 12, 1888.

1890.

An Act to amend an Act to incorporate Emory College, in the county of Newton, approved December 10, 1836, and the various Acts amendatory thereof, so as to increase the number of trustees of said College, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above named Act incorporating Emory College in the county of Newton, and the various Acts amendatory thereof, be, and are, hereby amended by adding eight additional trustees to the present number of said College, to wit: W. P. Pattillo, Walter B. Hill, E. P. Chamberlin, A. O. McDonell, Charles G. Goodrich, J. P. Williams, Robert Battey, and Lemuel Johnson.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all vacancies which may happen by the death, resignation or removal of said eight above-named trustees shall be filled by the Board of Trustees of said College, if by said board it be deemed advisable to fill such vacancies.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 26, 1890.

An Act to amend the charter of Emory College so as to make the resident Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustee of the said College, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the charter of Emory College is hereby amended so as to make the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, residing in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of said College.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 16, 1893.

STATUTES OF EMORY COLLEGE.

CHAPTER I.—BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

ARTICLE I.—Meetings.

Section 1. (1) The Board shall convene annually in Oxford, Ga., at ten o'clock a. m., on the Friday before the second Wednesday in June—i. e., before the Commencement.

(2) Nine members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(3) A member absent from two consecutive meetings, without rendering sufficient excuse, shall forfeit his membership.

(4) The meetings shall be open only to the members and Secretary of the Board, except when others are admitted to give information.

(5) A meeting of the Board may be called at any time, by its President, on special notice by the Secretary to each member, or three weeks' public notice; provided, however, that if a majority of the Board is not present at a special meeting, its action must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting to give it validity.

Sec. 2. (1) There shall be an Executive Committee consisting of five members, to be appointed by the President of the Board, empowered to meet and act in any emergency, to counsel the Faculty if desired, and to supervise, ad interim, the interests of the College.

(2) Their proceedings shall be recorded in the permanent Record Book of the Board, and their acts must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting to give them validity.

ARTICLE II.—Order of Business.

Section 1. (1) The Order of Business shall be:

1st. Religious Services.

2d. Call of Roll.

3d. Reading of Minutes.

4th. Appointment of Standing Committees of two or more members.

(1) On Finance and Treasurer's Report.

(2) On Internal Condition and Discipline of the College.

(3) On Condition of Building and Grounds.

(4) On Library, Apparatus, Cabinets, and other property.

5th. Report of Faculty.

6th. Report of Treasurer.

7th. Report of Agents.

8th. Report of Special Committees.

9th. Report of Standing Committees.

10th. Unfinished Business or New Business.

11th. Executive Committee Appointed.

12th. Trustees to Organize, Visiting Committees appointed.

13th. Election of Officers for ensuing year.

(2) It is understood that some of these items need be called only on first day of annual meetings; others—as 11th, 12th, and 13th—only on last day; but the above shall be the daily order, so far as applicable to the business of each day.

Sec. 2. This order of Business may be suspended for a defined reason by a two-thirds majority.

ARTICLE III.—Officers and their Duties.

Section 1. The Officers of the Board shall be a President, Secretary and Treasurer, to be elected annually; provided, however, that the same person may be elected Secretary and Treasurer, at the option of the Board.

Sec. 2. The President of the Board shall preside over its meetings; maintain order; enforce the rules of the Board; appoint committees not otherwise ordered; call special meetings, under the rule; represent the Board in meetings of stockholders of any company in which it owns stock, and perform such other duties as may be properly assigned him, to promote the interest of the College.

Sec. 3. (1) The Secretary of the Board shall journalize all its proceedings; shall record them—as also the proceedings of the Executive Committee—fully in permanent form; and shall carefully keep the records and all papers entrusted to his care, subject to order of the Board.

(2) To facilitate his business, if he requires, motions shall be reduced to writing before they are acted upon.

Sec. 4. (1) The Treasurer of the Board shall keep a full and intelligible account, in permanent form, of all the transactions of his office—of all moneys paid or given, and of all notes or other evidences of debt or gift coming into his hands—of all moneys paid out by him, and of all notes or assets used or surrendered in liquidation of debts—recording, in every case, dates and names of payer or payee, and on what account paid—whether as College fees, gift, endowment, dividend, interest, building repairs, salaries, incidental expenses, etc., etc.

(2) He shall keep safely and subject to the order of the Board, all moneys and papers entrusted to his care—disbursing its funds, except for incidental expenses, only as the Board or Executive Committee shall have ordered or authorized.

(3) He shall make to the Board, at every annual meeting, a full exhibit of the assets and liabilities, and of the financial condition of the College, showing accurately the receipts and expenditures of the year, and on what accounts, severally, money has been received and disbursed.

(4) He shall give bond, with approved security, for the faithful discharge of his duties; and shall receive compensation for his services.

ARTICLE IV.—Election and Amendments.

Section 1. All elections for officers and members of the Board, for members of the Faculty of Instruction, and for nominees to Honorary Degrees, shall be by ballot.

Sec. 2. These By-Laws may be amended at an annual meeting, by a two-thirds vote, on one day's notice, or by a majority vote, if notice has been given at a previous annual or special meeting.

CHAPTER II.—THE FACULTY OF INSTRUCTION.

ARTICLE I.—Constitution of Faculty.

Section 1. (1) The Faculty of Instruction shall be:

1st. A Professor of Moral and Mental Science.

2d. A Professor of English Language and Literature.

- 3d. A Professor of Pure Mathematics and Astronomy.
- 4th. A Professor of Applied Mathematics.
- 5th. A Professor of Natural Science.
- 6th. A Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.
- 7th. A Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.
- 8th. A Professor of Modern Languages, and such other Professors as the Board may hereafter designate; and from among these Professors the Board shall elect a President and Vice-President of the College; while the Faculty shall elect their own Secretary.

(2) A member of the Faculty may hold office for only three years, except by re-election; provided, also, that he may be displaced for cause at any time; or, if elected in the interval of annual meetings, the election must be confirmed at the next annual meeting, and his election shall date from that time.

(3) A member of the Faculty may not engage, without the consent of the Board, in any business that will interfere with the regular and punctual discharge of all his official duties.

ARTICLE II.—Specific Duties of the Faculty.

Section 1. The President of the College or, in his absence, the Vice-President, shall carefully supervise all the interests of the College; shall hold meetings of the Faculty under the rules ordained by themselves, at which he shall preside, and cause their proceedings to be recorded for inspection by the Board; shall promulgate their enactments, and enforce their decisions in cases of discipline; shall preside over all the public exercises of the College; shall confer degrees with consent of the Board; shall see that all the rules and regulations for the government of the College are enforced, and that a uniform discipline is maintained; and shall perform such other duties as shall from time to time be assigned to his office by the Board for the good government and success of the College.

Sec. 2. The Professor of English Language and Literature shall give instruction to all the College classes in Composition and Oratory, with such assistance—if he need any—as the Faculty may assign to him.

Sec. 3. The Professor of Natural Science shall be charged—in addition to his class duties—with the care of the apparatus, cabinets of minerals, etc.; shall keep them in good order, and report annually their condition.

Sec. 4. The several members of the Faculty shall give faithful instruction in their respective departments; shall unite in a uniform administration of discipline by exacting conformity to all the regulations of the Faculty and Trustees for the government of the College, in their respective recitation rooms and elsewhere; and shall report to the President all cases of neglect, disobedience, or improper conduct that may be deemed to need infliction of penalty.

Sec. 5. Each member shall give whatever aid the Faculty may designate to the classes of another member absent or sick; and shall, under like direction assist in any class or department—if competent—where assistance may be needed; provided, however, that the regular class duties of any Professor may not be made—without his consent—to exceed four hours passed daily in hearing recitations—or the equivalent thereof.

ARTICLE III.—General Duties of the Faculty.

Section 1. (1) The Faculty shall instruct in that course of study and text-books printed in the latest Annual Catalogue; provided, that the course may be altered or added to at any annual meeting of the Board.

(2) The Faculty may receive students, not candidates for a degree, who possess the requisite qualifications for taking up the studies they elect; provided, they take studies sufficient to profitably occupy their time.

(3) The Faculty shall fix the hours of study, recreation, and recitation; provided, that each class shall be required to devote at least four hours daily to recitations or lectures.

(4) The Faculty being charged individually and collectively with the maintenance of a uniform discipline, and with holding the students to a strict account for the discharge of duty, observance of rule, and good behavior, to promote these ends:

1st. They shall have authority to make and enforce such needed rules and regulations relative to the College police and the behavior of the students, in recitation and elsewhere, as may secure decent deportment, good morals and regularity in habits and practices; provided, such rules, etc., do not conflict with the enactments of the Trustees, and are submitted to the Board for approval at the annual meeting succeeding their enactment.

2d. The Faculty shall, under such minor regulations as they may adopt whereby they may secure justice and fair dealing with the several classes according to age of pupils and time of College residence, hold rigid written examinations of every class, monthly or quarterly, at the discretion of the Professor.

3d. Two circulars, showing the class standing of each student, shall be issued during each College year—one at the close of the Fall and one at the close of the Spring Term.

4th. The Faculty shall be charged, collectively, with the care of the College property, and shall correct any waste, or abuse, or neglect apparent respecting it.

5th. The Faculty shall elect a Librarian, who shall have charge of the Library, under such regulations as they may adopt.

6th. The Faculty shall constitute a Committee on Incidental Expenses, and they shall carefully inspect and audit all charges on said account, and report the same, by items, through the Treasurer to the Board.

7th. The Faculty shall co-operate with the Trustees appointed to organize the Visiting Committee in furnishing said committee all necessary accommodations for their work, and shall offer for its inspection the final examination papers of the respective classes.

When the demerits of any student shall amount within the Fall Term to 75, or in the Spring Term to 150, he shall be liable to the penalties elsewhere provided in the College Statutes; and when a student has been dismissed he shall in no case be readmitted except after a personal interview with his parent or guardian, and on direct application of such parent or guardian, made either in person or by letter, accompanied with satisfactory assurance from the student himself of future good conduct and faithful attention to duty, and then only when in the judgment of the Faculty his longer connection with the College will be of mutual benefit to himself and the institution. The fact that the student is of age, or is paying his own expenses in the College, will work no exception to this rule.

In estimating the value of demerits as they affect the class standing of students, one should be subtracted from the report of every ten demerits. The Secretary of the Faculty shall keep a "Demerit Roll," on which all demerits shall be entered at each meeting of the Faculty.

(5) The average of the marks given to each student at the end of each term, in each study, and in deportment, shall be recorded, and the average of the marks for all the terms of his College residence shall constitute his "final standing."

Sec. 2. (1) A student whose yearly class-standing shall not commend itself to the approval of the Faculty, shall not advance with his class, or graduate.

(2) Twelve members of the Junior Class and twelve members of the Senior Class shall be selected—from both, in order of their "final class-standing"—to deliver original speeches at Commencement; the Juniors being limited to eight minutes, and the Seniors to ten minutes' time, each.

(3) Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third and Fourth Honors—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their "final class-standing." Of these, two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A.B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B.Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions, an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the E.S. degree. But, when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the honor in question shall be awarded to the candidate for the A.B. degree next to those to whom honors have already been awarded. To the two graduates receiving the First and Second Honors, the Faculty shall make the following assignments for commencement:

The Valedictory Address to the graduate receiving the First Honor; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, French, German, or English, as the faculty may direct.

(4) The Senior Class shall be examined ten days before Commencement, and the honors assigned; after which the class may be discharged—except the selected speakers, who shall remain in Oxford, subject to all the laws of the College, except those requiring attendance on recitation.

(5) Ten or more—the number not to exceed fifteen—members of the Sophomore Class shall be selected by the faculty, on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes in oratory at Commencement; the speech of each one to be limited, however, to eight minutes in length.

(6) Ten members of the Freshman Class shall be selected by the Faculty on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes at Commencement.

(7) The names of all students the average of whose class standing for the year is above 9 shall be published at Commencement on a Roll of Honor.

Sec. 3. (1) The degree of Bachelor of Science shall be ordered conferred by the trustees, on a student who has satisfactorily completed the studies of the Scientific course; that of Bachelor of Arts, on one having so completed the A.B. course; and that of Master of Philosophy, on one having completed the B.Ph. course; and that of Master of Arts on one having completed the Master of Arts course.

(2) The Faculty, through its president, shall present the names of those qualified and entitled, according to law, to those respective degrees, to which they can be admitted only by a vote of the Board, and no diploma shall be issued to a student who fails to attend the Commencement of his graduation, unless he is absent by consent of the Faculty for good and sufficient cause shown.

ARTICLE IV.—Laws for Students and Penalties.

Section 1. (1) No student shall be admitted to College privileges until he has voluntarily subscribed the following pledge in the Matriculation Book, viz.:

"Acting under that sense of honor which always prompts a gentleman to hold his pledged word inviolate, I hereby promise to conform to all the regulations and laws of Emory College, now enacted, or which may be enacted, by the proper authorities, during my connection with the institution; and to yield respect and obedience to all its constitute authorities."

(2) In the intercourse of the students with each other and with the Faculty, it is expected that they will be governed by those rules of decorum and courtesy which mark the intercourse of gentlemen elsewhere—being respectful to those in authority—kind to fellow-students—considerate of their feelings—despising all paltry tricks upon citizens or servants, officers or students, as unworthy of cultivated gentlemen.

(3) As to moral conduct.—Profanity, gaming, Sabbath-breaking, indecent or vulgar language or conduct, quarreling, fighting, malicious mischief, deceit, falsehood, fraud, dishonesty toward each other or towards tradesmen, licentiousness and like crimes, disqualify a young man for an honorable standing in the College, and will not be tolerated.

Sec. 2. (1) More specifically.—Students are prohibited from attending any ball, theatre, horse-race, or cock-fight; from using intoxicating drinks; from playing cards; playing at any game for stakes; from keeping fire-arms or any deadly weapon, a horse, a dog, or a servant; from engaging in anything forbidden by the Faculty; from associating with persons of known bad character; from visiting Covington or other near points beyond the limits of Oxford without permission of some member of the Faculty, and from visiting points more distant without permission from parents or guardians and the permission of the President of the College; from visiting any place of ill-repute, or at which gaming is practiced, or intoxicating liquors are sold; from engaging in any "match game," or "intercollegiate" game of football, baseball, whatsoever.

(2) Study hours being appointed for study and recitation must be devoted strictly to study; therefore, students must be punctually present at all their recitations; and they are forbidden during study hours to visit each other's rooms, to engage in play, to be noisy or boisterous, to collect in the halls, public rooms or elsewhere for conversation or any other purpose; to leave the College premises; or to be absent from their respective rooms, after 10 o'clock on any night.

(3) Students must attend morning and evening prayer in the Chapel and public worship in the Church at Oxford on Sunday mornings and evenings—at which services all indecorous conduct is strictly prohibited.

(4) The President, or, if he cannot be seen, any member of the Faculty in any given case, on application—or the Faculty, on special occasions or for special purpose, may relax the stringency of any general rule.

(5) No College Secret Societies shall be formed, unless the Trustees permit it; nor shall students join any outside Secret Society, without permission from the President of the College. The time and place of meeting of such societies shall be under the control of the Faculty.

(6) The occupants of a room shall be held responsible for good order in their room.

(7) A student who behaves improperly in the recitation room may be dismissed from it by the Professor, and the case reported speedily to the President, for such action and punishment as the impropriety may merit.

(8) A student who defaces or injures the College building or other property, shall be held responsible for the damage done.

(9) No student shall leave College, or absent himself from duty on the plea that he has withdrawn from the institution, except with the permission of his parent or guardian, and of the President of the College, under the penalty of dismissal; and any student so withdrawn, or one suspended or dismissed, must at once leave Oxford (if a non-resident), except the President otherwise allows.

(10) Every student shall be required to choose, upon his entrance into College, the course he will pursue, and when he has made a choice, he shall not be allowed to change without consent of the Faculty; nor shall he be permitted to undertake studies outside of the course upon which he is placed, without the consent and approval of the President.

(11) All combinations of two or more students to neglect duty, to violate law, or to oppose authority shall be considered an offense of higher grade than isolated acts, and shall be punished accordingly.

(12) These rules apply to students in all departments of the College; and all the rules respecting moral conduct, good order, and study apply to sons or wards of citizens of Oxford, members of the College.

Sec. 3. (1) The Faculty shall try all offenders against College law and order, when arraignment has become necessary, and inflict suitable punishment, either (1) private admonition; (2) admonition before the Faculty; (3) admonition before the class; (4) admonition before the College; (5) suspension for a limited time; (6) indefinite suspension; (7) dismissal; or (8) expulsion.

(2) When a student, by general neglect of College duties, shows want of principle, or a spirit of insubordination; or, from habitual idleness and inattention to duty, fails to maintain a fair standing in his class, if he cannot be reformed by kind admonition, the Faculty shall cause the facts in his case to be presented to his father or guardian, with the request that he shall be privately withdrawn from the institution, and if not withdrawn, he may be dismissed.

(3) Nothing indecent, profane, immoral, or otherwise improper or unsuitable to the occasion, shall be spoken from the rostrum, under penalty of suitable punishment; and all students appointed to speak publicly shall exhibit their speeches to the officer whose duty it is to supervise them, and if the speaker attempts to deliver what has been erased, or forbidden, or any offensive matter he may add thereto, he shall be stopped, sent from the rostrum, his honors or degrees denied him, and be expelled for contumacy.

THE EDUCATIONAL LOAN FUND ASSOCIATION.

During the year 1888 many liberal persons, friends of the College and struggling young men, organized a corporation known as the "Educational Loan Fund Association of Emory College." The methods of its work are set forth in its Constitution and By-Laws, which follow:

ARTICLE I.

NAME, OBJECT, AND BUSINESS.

Section 1. The corporate name of this organization is "The Educational Loan Fund Association of Emory College," and its general object is to aid deserving young men in obtaining collegiate education in Emory College, Oxford, Ga.

Sec. 2. Its business is to accumulate funds by donations, collections, membership shares, loans, purchase and sale, gifts by will, deed, and otherwise, and various other methods, for the object aforesaid. Also, to borrow and lend money, to accept, hold, and execute trusts and guardianship of minors; also to provide for the tuition, boarding, books, and other educational expenses of students. The said business being entirely for the object aforesaid, it shall afford no personal or corporate profit for its members, and they shall have no personal liability for its debts or acts whatever.

ARTICLE II.

MEMBERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT.

Section 1. Membership shall consist of individuals, conferences, churches, societies, and corporations that have each paid into the General Loan Fund at least ten dollars, which is the par value of one share in said Association. A certificate shall be issued to each member, specifying the number of shares paid for at the rate of ten dollars per share, and every member shall be entitled to vote in all Association meetings, in person or by proxy, one vote for each share standing in his name. Each conference, church, society, or corporation holding one or more shares may appoint a representative, who shall cast the vote of his principal.

Sec. 2. The business shall be managed by Trustees acting as a Board of Directors, no fewer than five or more than thirteen, elected by the Association for one year, and holding until their successors are elected and qualified, who shall have all the powers of the Association, whenever it is not in session, except as they shall be restricted by the laws of the Association. They shall make their own rules and regulations, in which they shall prescribe the duties of Directors and all officers. They shall execute all trusts; they shall have control and management of all moneys, notes, bonds, stocks, and other property, real and personal, of the Association; they shall elect the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, fill all vacancies of unexpired terms, and do all other acts necessary or expedient to promote the objects of the Association. And they may expend not more than ten per cent. of the receipts, interests, and income of the Association annually in defraying the current expenses of its management. They shall provide for an annual meeting of the Association.

ARTICLE III.

ASSETS AND INCOME.

Section 1. The assets of the Association, consisting of money, notes, bonds, stocks, real and personal property, and all other property acquired by donations or otherwise from individuals, conferences, churches, societies, or corporations, shall be held and used for the sole educational object set forth in its charter and by-laws. Special gifts or trusts of any nature will be accepted, held and extended for the benefit of students or of the College, as directed by the donors. All assets shall be accounted for in the annual report.

Sec. 2. The income and general receipts of the Association will be derived from contributions by benevolent persons, membership shares, gifts by deed or will, donations by conference, churches, societies, and corporations, and other lawful and proper methods, and they shall be accounted for in the annual report.

Sec. 3. Any District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Georgia, Florida, or other State, may provide for the payment, annually or otherwise, into the General Loan Fund of the Association, of the sum of TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS, or other sum not less than FIFTY DOLLARS; and may thereupon elect in its own way, a student or students to receive the benefit of said contribution in tuition, board, and books, or either, in Emory College according to the sum paid in. This sum so paid in shall be placed permanently in the General Loan Fund, and shall be entered to the loan account of the student or students whom the District Conference shall have elected; and said student, when he is accepted by the Faculty of Emory College, shall have the benefit of said contribution according to the by-laws regulating the Loan Fund. Any Annual or Quarterly Conference, or any church, society, corporation, or individual, who shall make a similar contribution to the Loan Fund, shall have the same privileges prescribed for District Conferences.

ARTICLE IV.

LOANS.

Section 1. The General Loan Fund shall consist of all subscriptions, collections, donations by wills, deed, or otherwise, of money, stocks, bonds, notes, and other property, real and personal, or mixed, or choses in action, which have been acquired of individuals, churches, societies, and corporations for the purpose of making loans to students as aforesaid; the notes also of students given in payment of said loans, together with all interest that may accrue on the same, and all income, interest, and profits, and every estate not specially donated otherwise, shall be placed in the General Loan Fund.

Sec. 2. Loans shall be made to young men to aid them in securing collegiate education as follows: No young man shall be a claimant on the Loan Fund until he shall have been accepted by the Faculty as a member, in one of the College classes, and his claim shall cease on the day of his graduation, dismissal, or withdrawal. No student shall receive loans from the Loan Fund above two hundred dollars per annum. The loan shall be paid first on tuition, and afterwards on board, books, and other expenses. The student to whom the loan is made shall execute his promissory notes for the payments of all loans, and these notes shall be framed so as to make the repayments in annual installments of the amount annually borrowed. These notes shall also be made payable so that the first installment of repayment shall be due twelve months after the student, who is the maker of the note, shall have left the College, or shall have been graduated, and the other notes successively annually thereafter. These notes shall bear no interest until after the student leaves the College, when they begin to draw interest at the annual rate of 5 per cent., and if not paid at maturity, they will thereafter draw interest at the rate of 8 per cent. They shall be a part of the General Loan Fund, and when collected by the Association or its assigns, the funds arising therefrom shall remain a part of the Loan Fund perpetually.

Sec. 3. Special account shall be kept of all funds arising from gifts of individuals, or from any other source, which have been given or acquired on any special use or trust, and the same shall be employed according to the terms of the trust or wishes of the donor, whether it be for loans or for donations to students or to Emory College, or to any department, chair, or school of said College.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS.

These By-Laws may be amended at a regular meeting of said Trustees or Directors by a two-thirds' vote, previous notice for thirty days having been given for the amendment proposed.

THE

STONE MOUNTAIN ROUTE.

GEORGIA RAILROAD

IS THE

GREAT STEEL THOROUGHFARE

BETWEEN THE

East and West,

South and Southwest.

Its geographical situation is such that it passes through the Eastern middle section of Georgia, the most fertile and productive section of the State, as well as the most thickly settled section. There are numerous towns and villages along the line. Among others we may mention Conyers, Covington, Social Circle, Madison, Greensboro, Crawfordville (the home of the late Hon. Alex. H. Stephens), Thompson, and Harlem, while its branch lines give communication to all sections of the country, from Washington, Warrenton, Sparta, and Milledgeville.

If you desire to locate in the most healthful section of Georgia, you will find it on the Georgia Railroad.

All well-informed persons travel and ship via Georgia R. R.

ADMISSION.

The Fall Term begins the third Wednesday in September; the Spring Term the first school day in January.

The first three days in each term are given mainly to examinations for admission into College, and it is very important that applicants be present on the opening day. Failure to be thus on hand is a hindrance to the student and an inconvenience to the Faculty.

Applicants for admission to the Freshman Class, A. B. Course, will be examined in English Grammar, Arithmetic, Algebra (through Involution), Geometry (through Book I.), Caesar's Gallic War, Cicero's Orations, Goodwin's Greek Grammar, and Leighton's Greek Lessons, or the equivalents of them. Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B. Ph. Course, will be examined in the same, except the Greek, and candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, B. S. Course, will be examined in all except the Latin and Greek.

Candidates for admission into classes above the Freshman will be examined, in addition to the studies named above, on the studies already completed by the class into which they seek to be admitted.

A thorough knowledge of the English, Greek, and Latin Grammars and of the fundamental principles of Mathematics cannot be too strongly urged. In Algebra, especial attention should be given to Factoring, Greatest Common Measure, Least Common Multiple, and Fractions; few students enter college properly drilled in these matters. Too many students attempt to enter college with inadequate preparation upon these subjects, and bring embarrassment to themselves and difficulties to their instructors which might be avoided by more careful, systematic instruction while in training for a college course.

Special attention is directed to thorough preparation in English, Greek, and Latin, particularly by applicants for classes higher than Freshman.

Students who may wish to receive instruction in particular departments, without pursuing either regular course in full or becoming candidates for a degree, will be allowed to do so, provided they have the preparation requisite for successful work with the regular classes in these departments, and will take work enough to suitably engage their time.

After a satisfactory examination, each applicant will be furnished with a copy of the laws of the College, and, after having had time to read them carefully, will be required to matriculate, thereby pledging himself to observe college law during his continuance in the institution.

Satisfactory testimonials of good character will be required in all cases, and applicants coming from another college or academy must present certificates of honorable dismissal.

A Joint Committee from the faculties of Mercer University, the University of Georgia and this institution have under consideration uniform conditions of entrance into the three institutions. The report of the committee is not complete, and will not be operative until 1899. The requirements agreed on, being substantially the same as now operative at Emory College, are given below as expository of the foregoing:

English: 1 Grammar,—Thorough knowledge of technical English Grammar, including sentence analysis; 2 Composition,—Ability to write fair English. At least one year's work in original composition. Weekly exercises are earnestly recommended. 3 Readings,—General knowledge of the contents of at least three good English works. No examination will be held on reading, but the student must know something of the best works of English and American authors.

Mathematics.—Algebra to Quadratics; Geometry, three Books in Benson & Smith's, I., III., IV.; in other Text Books, I.-III.

Greek.—White's Beginner's Greek, revised and condensed, two Books of the Anabasis, with the mastery of the Syntax, therein contained.

Latin.—Four books of Caesar and two Orations of Cicero or one Book of Vergil's Aeneid.

SUB-FRESHMAN DEPARTMENT.

The authorities of Emory College recognize the conspicuous lack of well-equipped schools for secondary instruction in our country, and seek to do what they can to supply the want by maintaining a Sub-Freshman Department. This department is in charge of Profesor W. B. Griffin, Jr., Profesor Edgar H. Johnson, Professor C. C. Jarrell and Profesor F. C. Brown. It is designed to accomplish the following important ends:

1. The best school in the country for the thorough preparation of young men for the regular college course. Very many of our patrons find it necessary to send their sons from home to be prepared for college. To them we offer advantages they can hardly find elsewhere. Their sons will be taught the studies they need to master in order to enter the regular college classes; they will be taught thoroughly and in less time than will be necessary in schools not specifically devoted to such work.

2. There are hundreds of young men who, for various reasons, cannot take a regular college course; some because they cannot meet the cost; some because they feel they are too old to afford the time; some because they desire only a "practical education." Many young men of this class need to be perfected in their elementary studies, as Grammar, Geography, and Arithmetic.

But they need to review their studies where they will have the advantages furnished by a college. They want access to large libraries and the opportunities afforded by debating societies; also opportunity to study some parts of Natural Science, in connection with lectures and laboratory work. Some wish to add a few of the studies of the English Department of the college course. To such young men, Emory College, with its Sub-Freshman Department, offers advantages and opportunities that are rarely found.

3. Those who desire to extend their English studies in securing a thorough business education will find here what they need.

The course of study requires two years for its completion, and is set forth on the next page.

THE COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

In the collegiate department full and varied courses of study are offered. Special attention is invited to the following points concerning the work proposed.

1. There is no branch of useful learning the study of which may not now be prosecuted as profitably and successfully at Emory College as at any other American college, and the variety of courses opened is sufficient to meet the tastes and wants of all. It is not proposed to do the work of a university. Institutions having less income than is required for university work, yet undertaking collegiate work by university methods, are universities only in name—"fiat" universities. They mislead and injure students. Emory College proposes to do the best collegiate work.

2. The course of study in English and the Bible are required for every degree at Emory College. Our mother tongue and our holy religion occupy the first place in the work of this institution.

3. The work proposed in the department of History and Political Economy, taken in connection with the study of Greek and Roman History in the Classical Department, and the study of the Bible, is one of the fullest and most beautiful courses of historical study to be found in an American college.

4. The courses in Natural Science, and Pure and Applied Mathematics are very full, and the satisfactory completion of the Bachelor of Science course will qualify the student for all the work of civil engineering, chemical analysis, etc.

5. The value of the modern languages is recognized by full and attractive courses.

6. While Emory College recognizes fully the worth of scientific study and the value of the modern languages, it refuses to yield to an unwise popular clamor against the classics. No student can receive the degree of A. B. from this institution who has not satisfactorily completed the courses in Latin and Greek, as well as English, and at least one of the modern languages. The literature of the Hebrews, Greeks, and Romans have entered vitally into our own civilization, and familiarity with them is reckoned of the highest value by the authorities of this College.

SELECTED COURSES NOT LEADING TO A DEGREE.

There are many young men who for various reasons cannot take a full course and receive a degree. But a year or more in college, pursuing such studies as may be found best suited to their wants, is of great value to them. For the benefit of such persons, the Board of Trustees has made provision by the following statute: "The Faculty may receive students, not candidates for a degree, who possess the requisite qualifications for taking up the studies they elect; provided, they take studies sufficient to profitably occupy their time."

Of course, the work of such students must conform to the schedule of lectures and recitations arranged for the regular courses.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS.

In connection with the institution, a TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PREACHERS has been established. It is not designed to be a theological seminary, but such a school as is implied by the name, and in which may be met the wants of our young ministers who, before entering upon their conference course, desire a special preparation not offered by the usual college curriculum.

The course of study covers a period of two years, and embraces thorough study of the English Bible, Logic, Rhetoric, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Homiletics, Church History, Systematic Theology, and such introductory study of Greek and Hebrew as will prepare the student to use intelligently the standard commentaries on the Old and New Testaments. The following schedule sets forth the work proposed:

FIRST YEAR.

FALL TERM.

1. ENGLISH—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. LOGIC—Jevons'. 3. ENGLISH BIBLE—Steele's Outlines and Lectures. 4. ELOCUTION. 5. CHURCH HISTORY—Fisher's. 6. MENTAL PHILOSOPHY—Mañan's.

SPRING TERM.

1. ENGLISH—Clarke's Practical Rhetoric. 2. MORAL PHILOSOPHY—Robinson's Principles and Practice of Morality. 3. ENGLISH BIBLE—Steele's Outlines, with Lectures. 4. ELOCUTION. 5. CHURCH HISTORY—Fisher's. 6 EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY—Fisher's.

SECOND YEAR.

(Both Terms.)

1. SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY—Wakefield's, with Lectures. 2. ENGLISH BIBLE—Steele's Outlines with Lectures. 3. CHURCH HISTORY—McTyeire's History of Methodism. 4. HOMILETICS—Austin Phelps's Theory of Preaching, with Lectures. 5. NEW TESTAMENT, GREEK—Westcott and Hort's Text. 6. HEBREW—Manheimer's Complete Grammar. Reading: Selections from the Historical Books of the Old Testament.

The Literary Societies connected with the College are open to the students of the Training School, and the weekly discussions therein will do much to fit young preachers for their life-work. Besides the valuable libraries of these societies, the library of the College will be of great use to the students in Theology. It is especially rich in theological literature, and no library in the South, perhaps, contains so many rare books bearing on Methodist history.

In connection with the College are three of the largest houses in Oxford devoted to the use of students of small means. Board in these halls can be had as low as $8.00 a month. Board with private families can be secured at from $10.00 to $15.00 a month. No tuition is charged for the course in Theology. An annual fee of $10.00 to cover library fee and the incidental expenses of the department is charged. The total cost of a year's work in the Training School may, therefore, be stated approximately, as follows:

Library and incidental fee	$10 00
Board in helping hall	75 00
Light and laundry	10 00
Books	15 00

Total$110 00

Matriculation fee, payable once on entrance $5 00

A. M. COURSE.

A candidate for the degree of A. M. must have received the degree of A. B. from this College, or from some other institution of learning at which the requirements for A. B. are, in the opinion of the faculty, equal to those of this College. In addition, the candidate must complete at least one of the following groups of studies, and stand a satisfactory examination upon the same:

I. MODERN LANGUAGES.

ENGLISH—Cook's Seiver's Anglo-Saxon Grammar; Bright's Anglo-Saxon Gospel; Ten Brink's Early English Literature; Skeat's Specimens of English (1374-1579); Saintsbury's Elizabethan Literature. Essay: Rise and Development of English Drama. FRENCH—Whitney's French Grammar; any four plays of Moliere, Racine, or Corneille; any one of the following: Dumas' La Tulipe Noire, Stael's Le Directoire, Souvestre's Le Philosophe sous les Toits, Saintain's Picciola; Saintsbury's French Literature; sight translations of a continuous passage of English into French; a short essay in French on any of the author's mentioned above. GERMAN—Whitney's German Grammar; any four plays of Schiller, Goethe, or Lessing; any one of the following: Klopstock's Messiah, Goethe's Faust, Schiller's Geschichte des 30—Jaehrigen Krieges, Mrs. Conant's German Literature; sight translation of a continuous passage of English into German; a short essay in German on any of the authors mentioned above. The English and either the French or German is the required course in this group.

II. ANCIENT LANGUAGES.

GREEK—Euripides's Medea; Plato Contra Atheos; Aristophanes's Clouds; History of Greek Philosophy; Grote's History of Greece. LATIN—Lucretius De Rerum Naturae (two books); Satires of Juvenal (two books); Review of Roman History and Geography. An approved Essay on the Influence of the Roman or Greek Language and Literature on the Language and Literature of Modern Nations.

POLITICAL ECONOMY—Fawcett's. EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY—Grounds of Theistic and Christian Belief, Fisher. An approved Philosophical Dissertation.

IV. MATHEMATICS.

ALGEBRA—Todhunter's Theory of Equations to Symmetric Functions. ANALYTICAL GEOMETRY—Transcendental Curves. DIFFERENTIAL CALCULUS—Method of Tracing Curves, Determining Concavity, Convexity and Singular Points. Differential of an Arc or Surface of a Plane Curve—of Surfaces and Volumes of Revolution. INTEGRAL CALCULUS—Rectification of Plane Curves; Quadrature of Surfaces of Revolution; Curvature of Solids of Revolution. The subjects and texts herein enumerated are given as a suggestive outline of the work and not as an inflexible course. In consequence of the mathematical elections allowed in Senior year for A. B. degree, the A. M. course for each candidate will be arranged to his needs. But in addition to the full undergraduate course, a knowledge of the theory of equations, advanced plane, analytical geometry, and solid geometry will be required. An approved Mathematical Essay.

V. NATURAL SCIENCE.

Tyndall "On Sound"; Tyndall's "Heat as a Mode of Motion"; Lommel's "The Nature of Light"; Davis's "Elementary Meteorology"; Cook's "Chemical Philosophy," or Caldwell's "Qualitative Analysis; Schellen's "Spectrum Analysis"; Stewart's "The Conservation of Energy"; Le Conte's "Elements of Geology" (or an equivalent study); Draper's "Physiology."

The equivalents of these studies for any application shall be designated by the Professor.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

By special act of the Legislature, graduates of this department receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws, and their diplomas admit them to the bar in Georgia without examination.

The course of study may be completed in one year, divided into two terms—the first term beginning with the college term in September, and the second ending with the commencement in June.

COURSE OF STUDY.

FIRST TERM.

Blackstone's Commentaries; Smith on Contracts; Pollock on Torts; Political Economy, Jevons'.

SECOND TERM.

Adams's Equity; Best on Evidence; Stephens on Pleading; Code of Georgia; Parliamentary Law, Roberts; Constitutional History of United States, Woodrow Wilson.

Tuition fee for Entire Course, $70.00; Matriculation fee $5.00; Diploma fee $10.00.

For further information, apply to JUDGE CAPERS DICKSON, Oxford, Ga.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

Many students expecting to enter college in the fall find themselves deficient in one or more studies—deficiencies which can be made up easily with the aid of a good teacher during the summer. To meet the wants of such students, as well as the needs of teachers in the common schools who desire a fuller acquaintance with some subjects, the Summer School was organized. It affords the best instruction at low rates. Tuition $5.00 per month. Board can be secured in private houses at Oxford, during the summer, at $10.00 a month.

DEGREES

The regular degrees conferred by this institution are: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Philosophy, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Laws, and Master of Arts. They are conferred upon students who complete the courses leading to these degrees, and are never complimentary.

EXAMINATIONS.

There are quarterly (or more frequently, at the discretion of the instructor) written examinations of all classes. In addition to the regular studies of the course, these examinations embrace also once a year the elementary studies—Geography, Arithmetic, and English Grammar, thus constantly refreshing the memory on fundamentals. All examinations are conducted in writing.

VACATIONS.

There is but one vacation—extending from Commencement Day, second Wednesday in June, to third Wednesday in September. The college year is continuous—from third Wednesday in September to Commencement Day, except a recess of one week—Christmas. Experience proves the one vacation plan incomparably better for all concerned.

By this arrangement many young men are enabled to make money enough during vacation to pay their expenses during the next college year.

The President of the College helps them to find profitable employment.

A WORD TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

In view of the unavoidably evil effects of all absences, whether at the beginning or at any other period of the term, upon the standing and proficiency of the student, the Faculty earnestly requests that parents and guardians will in no way encourage or approve such absences without very urgent reasons. This is to be especially remarked in this day of Expositions and the like. One day off at such a gathering distracts the mind for many days, not to mention the moral effect. Cheap railroad rates cannot pay for the damage done. We are unwilling, even with the consent of parents, for students to attend intercollegiate games. The excitements and immorality inseparable from these brutal sports so injuriously affect a student, this institution entirely forbids them.

When any student, from habitual idleness or inattention to duty is found flagging in his work, the cause is kindly inquired into, and if, after suitable attempts to reform him, he is incorrigible, the President will write to his parent or guardian, inform him of the facts, and request his withdrawal without notoriety or disgrace.

It is urged upon patrons to consider the importance to the student of beginning upon the first day of the term in which he enters.

Examinations for admission to College begin on the day each term opens. (See Calendar).

EXPENSES, ETC.

The total cost of a year at Emory is at low as that of any first-class college on this continent—lower than most. It has not seemed wise to the authorities of the institution to weaken its teaching force in order to make tuition free to all, but rather to grant such help to those only who really need it. When any insufficiently endowed college offers free tuition, it does so through the device of a delusive fee-bill almost the equivalent of the usual tuition, or by weakening its teaching force by consolidating chairs. In other words, such a college deceives its patrons with a pretense of cheapness, or defrauds them with superficial work. Emory College prefers to require those who are able to pay tuition, that those who are not able may be helped, and that they all may enjoy the best advantages.

But while it advertises no "free tuition," board (a much larger item than tuition in a college course) is so low in Oxford, and the expenses arising from the social surroundings of the College (which cannot be stated in a catalogue, but are often heavily felt by students of other institutions) are so small that the annual expenses of a student at Emory College, exclusive of clothing, can be brought within $200. Not a few students get through on less. The following schedule gives the rate of board, tuition, books, etc.

Matriculation fee (payable only on entering College), $5.00.

TUITION OF SONS OF MINISTERS.

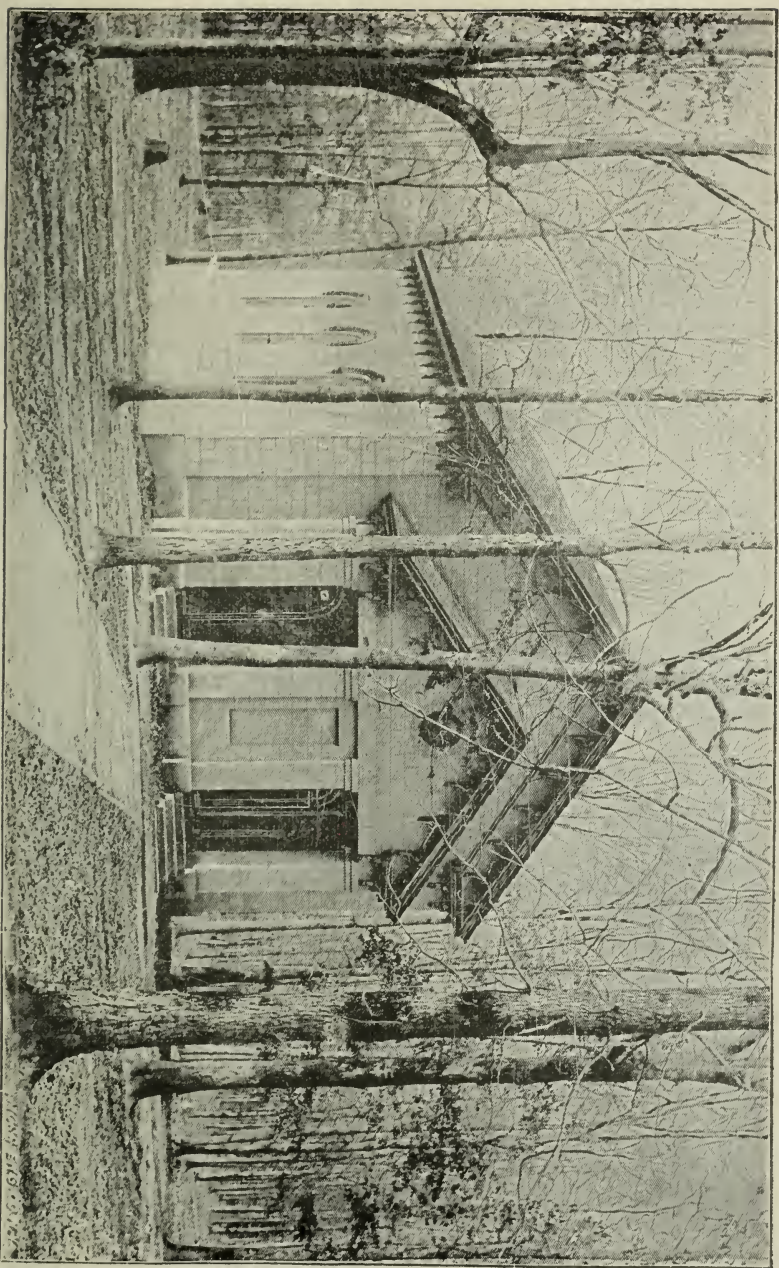

The sons of itinerant preachers are not charged tuition in the College classes. This rule applies to all the Annual Conferences. The sons of pastors of churches other than the Methodist church are granted the same privileges.

BOARD.

Board can be had in private families at $10 to $15 per month. The highest board in Oxford is $50 for three months, and includes furnished room, table, lights, fuel, and servants' attention. Board in the Helping Halls is $8 per month.

HELPING HALLS.

Knowing well there are thousands of young men in the country who have good minds, good conscience, true ambition, and little money—young men who for the most part work their way—the College, so far back as 1876, began in a little six-room cottage the experiment of procuring cheap board for those who needed it. In the Fall Term of that year ten young men began housekeeping in the rented house. Among them were Prof. W. T. Dumas, who originated the plan; the Rev. Kenneth McLain, of blessed memory; the Rev. George Loehr, of the same class (now of the China mission), and others who are now in different fields doing good work as educated men. For three years the experiment was conducted in the little cottage. At the end it was proved to all who had knowledge of the facts: (1) that cheap and good board was in the reach of poor boys; (2) that in health, morals, social standing—among students and citizens—and scholarship, the “Hall” boys ranked with the best. From the beginning until the current college year not less than eight hundred young men of limited means have found in the “Helping Halls” the solution of their problem, and have been enabled to take a full or partial college course.

CHAPEL.

Every year the "Hall" men have won distinctions—class honors, prize medals, or literary society positions.

Three of the largest and best houses in Oxford are used as "Helping Halls." Good men and women have furnished the means to procure these buildings for this purpose.

The "Helping Halls" are under the direct control of the President of the College; he appoints the "Managers," who are responsible to him. The following principles are observed in determining the question of admittance: 1. No little boys are admitted unless with older brothers or some mature friend who may occupy a brother's place. 2. None are admitted who do not need this sort of aid. 3. No student without a good showing as to upright character is admitted.

Incalculable good has been accomplished through the "Helping Halls." The experiment has been long, thoroughly and successfully made.

Not a few of the "Hall" men make enough selling books, teaching school, etc., during vacation months—July, August, and September—to pay their expenses during the college year. A great number make enough, with a little help from home, to solve their problem.

Among the "Hall" men of the present year are a number looking to the ministry.

Itinerant preachers with short salaries will find at Emory, with the "Helping Halls" and free tuition, a chance to educate their sons. Many who get help to make their way the first year find themselves able to go on.

The following has been the order of management for the college year 1895-96:

Young L. G. Harris Hall—Rev. Robert M. Clark, Manager.

Marvin Hall—O. L. Callahan, Manager.

Andrew Hall—Rev. M. W. Carmichael, Manager.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION, ETC.

Emory College is located in the village of Oxford, Newton county, Ga., forty miles east of Atlanta, one mile from the Georgia Railroad. A street car line runs to the depot. Oxford is proverbially healthy, and emphatically the student's home. The village is on a high granite ridge, with no possible local cause of sickness. Its literary, social, and religious advantages are unexcelled. By special act of the Legislature drinking and gambling saloons are excluded from the town and from within one mile of its corporate limits. The quiet seclusion of the place invites to study, and prevailing influences around favor the formation of good habits and the development of a true manhood.

Emory College is the joint property of the North Georgia, South Georgia, and Florida Annual Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. While it is Methodist in its organization, it is not exclusive or sectarian, numbering among its patrons members of all Protestant denominations.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The authorities of this institution are unwilling to take boys and young men away from the influences and restraints of home at a period in life when passion is strongest and habits are forming, without bringing to bear the most direct and intentional effort to secure their religious well-being. Accordingly, while in the exercises and instruction of the College there is nothing sectarian, a pronounced Christian life is urged upon all the students. The Bible is systematically studied by every class, from Freshman to Senior. If Grecian and Roman mythologies are thought necessary for classical culture, the law of Moses and the Gospel of Christ are more necessary to Christian culture. So Emory teaches, and observes to do.

Every College-day, morning and evening, prayers are held in the Chapel, at which all students are required to be present. The services consist of reading the Scriptures, singing, and prayer. The Chapel is supplied with an organ and suitable hymn-books (containing both words and music), and the Chapel service is a pleasure and blessing to all.

Every student is required to attend church twice on the Sabbath.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two flourishing literary societies—the Few and the Phi Gamma—connected with the College. These societies date their origin almost with that of the College itself. The Phi Gamma was organized in 1837, and the Few in 1839. Each society has its own building, containing debating halls, reading-room and library, etc., comfortably and handsomely furnished. The library of the Phi Gamma Society contains 2,500 volumes; that of the Few Society, 3,000 volumes; representing a wide range of the best literature. The reading-rooms are supplied with the prominent journals and reviews of the day, besides valuable files of those of earlier date, some as far back as 1792.

The active membership embraces a majority of the students of the College, while the total lists run up into thousands.

The weekly discussions in these societies offer the best facilities to the students to become ready speakers and able debaters, and are regarded as invaluable aids to the instruction and culture furnished by the College.

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY.

Contains about 20,000 volumes, and the collection is enlarged and improved constantly. Recently the valuable library of the late Dr. W. P. Harrison has come into the possession of the College, which, added to the large collection previously owned, makes the library second to none in the Southern States. The library is open every day, and is furnished comfortably for work.

A fire-proof building for the Library has just been completed. It furnishes ample room for 75,000 volumes, and is one of the most beautiful and admirably arranged library buildings in the South: It is hoped it will be rapidly filled with the best books. In this work the efficient co-operation of the friends of the institution is invoked. The alumni—ever loyal to Emory College—are particularly requested to lend their invaluable aid in greatly enlarging and improving our collection of useful works. The alumni can give to our Library, from their private collections, thousands of useful books. Other institutions have been enriched in this way. Many valuable books came to the Library in this way during the past year, and from the library fees of students purchases are made each year of the best books that are published. It is proposed to collect such a library as will meet all the wants of young men who are seeking the highest literary culture.

The alumni and the friends of the College will confer a great favor upon the institution by sending to the Librarian any works which they may be able to spare, or by making contributions of money for the purchase of books.

It is particularly desired to gather a large collection of books bearing upon Southern history, and especially that of Georgia. During the past year the Library has received additions of this sort of a most valuable character. It now contains all the digests of the laws of Georgia, and all the acts of the Legislature from 1850 to 1890. The acts prior to 1850 and since 1890 are earnestly desired. Bound copies of newspapers published before and during the war are very valuable to the Library.

Those who can spare books, and who may hesitate, supposing that duplicates are already in the Library, can readily ascertain the facts in the case by dropping a note to the Librarian, Professor H. H. Stone, Oxford, Ga. Duplicates of good books are as welcome as they are useful.

THE MINERAL CABINET.

The Mineral Cabinet is very large, containing several thousands of specimens collected with care during the last fifty years, and embracing many of the most beautiful, perfect, and valuable specimens of crystallization and other mineral forms from the most important localities in Europe and America.

The collection has grown so large and interesting it has attracted the attention of many people, through whose thoughtful generosity it steadily grows.

We solicit the co-operation of our friends in bringing together a still larger and more perfect collection of mineralogical, biological, and other specimens that may be useful in the study of natural science.

THE MUSEUM.

Through the gifts of Dr. Young J. Allen, Colonel C. P. Crawford, Rev. E. A. Gray, Rev. W. J. Callahan, Bishop A. G. Haygood and others, a most interesting collection of objects of historical interest has been made. The collection was greatly enriched recently by two shipments from Professor W. P. Turner, of the class of 1889, now resident in Japan.

APPARATUS.

Important additions are made annually to the Chemical, Mathematical and Philosophical Apparatus. The College was never so well furnished in these departments. Very special attention is given to teaching the students the methods of conducting experiments for themselves. This is a marked feature in the Scientific Department of the College.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The College is indebted to the following persons for valuable contributions to the Library, Museum and Mineral Cabinet during the past year: Mr. S. C. Candler, Villa Rica, Ga., Indian relic; Rev. Robert O. Smith, fossil specimen, Winterville, Ga.; W. S. Yeates, State Geologist, 2 vols.; Rev. J. P. Wardlaw, 2 vols.; Prof. E. H. Johnson, 6 vols.; Southern Methodist Publishing House, 8 vols.; Geo. Bronson Rea 1 vol.; Robt. C. Winthrop, Jr., 1 vol.; Capt. J. M. Pace, 1 vol.; Hon. W. N. Sheats, 1 vol.; King, Richardson Publishing Co., 1 vol.; W. A. Clark, 3 vols.; Cyrus H. McCormick, 1 vol.; Prof. J. Magath, 1 vol.; C. H. Dorsett, 1 vol.; I. C. Jenkins, 1 vol.; U. S. Government; Smithsonian Institute; Hon. D. L. Palmer; Rev. Young J. Allen, LL. D.; Mrs. W. A. Candler.

HONORS, MEDALS, ETC.

Students are incited to diligence and fidelity by awards of Honors, Medals, etc., and no damage is done, it is believed, to moral and spiritual character.

The Honors are awarded under the following regulations, taken from the Statutes of the College:

Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third and Fourth Honor—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their “final class-standing.” Of these, two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A. B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B. Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the B. S. Degree. But when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the Honor in question shall be awarded to a candidate for the A. B. degree next to those to whom Honors have already been awarded. To the graduates receiving the first and second Honors, the Faculty shall make the following assignments for Commencement:

To the graduate receiving First Honor, the Valedictory Address; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor, the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, Greek, German, French or English.

A Roll of Honor is published at Commencement on which appear the names of all those students the average of whose work is graded above 9, 10 being the standard of perfect work.

The following Prizes and Medals are offered for excellence in the various branches of study:

SUB-FRESHMAN MEDAL. The Adjunct Professors in charge of the Sub-Freshman Class gives a Gold Medal to the member of the Class who is adjudged to have excelled in Declamation at Commencement.

THE "FRESHMAN MEDAL." The Faculty gives a Medal to awarded to that member of the Freshman Class excelling in Declamation at Commencement.

THE SOPHOMORE DECLAMATION MEDAL. A Gold Medal is given for the best Declamation by a Sophomore speaker at Commencement.

THE "JUNIOR MEDAL." A Gold Medal is offered for the best oration by any Junior Speaker at Commencement.

THE "SENIOR MEDAL." The Faculty offers a Gold Medal for the best Graduating Oration by any Senior Speaker, "both matter and manner to be considered."

THE "BOYNTON PRIZE MEDAL." The late Charles E. Boynton, of Atlanta, Ga., endowed a Medal for the best Essay written by any member of the Junior or Senior Class.

THE "PALMER PRIZE MEDAL." Mr. L. D. Palmer, an alumnus of the Class of 1855, has established a Gold Medal for excellence in Mathematics.

THE "BIGHAM MEDAL." Rev. R. J. Bigham, D. D., an alumnus of the Class of 1877, has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Freshman Class.

THE "PHINIZY MEDAL." Leonard Phinizy, Esq., of Augusta, Ga., has established a Medal to be awarded for the best Essay written by any member of the Sophomore Class.

THE "REPPARD GREEK MEDAL." Mr. R. B. Reppard, of Savannah, Ga., has endowed a Medal for excellence in Greek.

THE "LATIN MEDAL." An alumnus of the College offers a Medal for excellence in Latin.

THE "PASCO PRIZE MEDAL." The Rev. F. Pasco, of the Florida Conference, has endowed a Gold Medal for excellence in the Department of Natural Science.

AWARDS FOR 1897.

Graduating Class:—First Honor, R. J. Travis; Second Honor, Enerst Ward; Third Honor, W. P. Bloodworth; Fourth Honor, W. E. Quillian; J. B. Johnston Prize, W. P. Bloodworth; Boynton Medal, W. P. Bloodworth; Palmer Medal, R. J. Travis; Senior Medal for Best Graduating Oration, R. H. Hankinson.

Junior Class:—Pasco Medal, John W. Hurt; Latin Medal, Tucker Irvin; Junior Medal for Oratory, F. H. Ficklin; Greek Medal, M. M. Murphey.

Sophomore Class:—Declamation Medal, W. F. Johnson; Phinizy Medal, H. O. Smith.

Freshman Class:—Declamation Medal, Daniel Lott; Bigham Medal, N. C. Napier, Jr

Sub-Freshman Class:—Prize Scholarship, T. W. Wilson; Declamation Medal, Lambert S. Coburn.

ACT OF INCORPORATION AND OTHER STATUTES.

1836.

An Act to Incorporate Emory College, to be located in the County of Newton

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, George F. Pierce, Charles H. Saunders, David P. Hillhouse, William P. Graham, Seaborn Jones, Joseph A. Eve, Iverson L. Graves, Lucius Wittich, and John Park be, and they are, hereby appointed trustees of a college, to be established in the county of Newton, in this State, which shall be known and called by the name of Emory College.

Sec. 2. The aforesaid trustees, and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to make such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary for the government of said college; provided, such laws and regulations be not repugnant to the constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 3. The said trustees and their successors in office, under the name and style of "Trustees of Emory College," may use a common seal, and shall be, and are hereby declared to be capable in law or equity, of suing and being sued; pleading and being impleaded; contracting and being contracted with; and of using all means necessary and lawful for securing and defending any money, property, debts, or demands which do now, or may hereafter belong to said college; for receiving all grants, gifts, bequests, devises, or conveyances of property of all descriptions whatever.

Sec. 4. The said trustees and their successors in office shall be entrusted with, and entitled as such, to have and hold all manner of property, both real and personal, all donations, grants, gifts, bequests, legacies, privileges, and immunities whatever, which may now belong to said college, or which may hereafter be made or conveyed to it; and no misnomer of the corporation shall prevent its rights from vesting whenever it shall appear or can be ascertained that it was the intention of the party or parties, to sell, give or bequeath any right or interest to the said corporation.

Sec. 5. The said trustees and their successors in office, or a majority of them, shall have power and authority to appoint and remove all officers connected with the said college, and to compel them to give bond and security, according to the by-laws of the institution; and that the said board of trustees and their successors in office, shall have power and authority to remove any member of their board for the violation of their by-laws; provided, that no member of the board shall be removed until he be sufficiently indemnified against all responsibilities for the payment of money which he or they may have incurred as trustee or trustees aforesaid.

Sec. 6. The President of the said college, with the consent of the professors the trustees, shall have power and authority to confer and award all such honors, degrees, and licenses as are usually conferred in colleges and universities.

Sec. 7. When any vacancy shall happen in said board of trustees the Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, when in conference assembled, shall have power and authority to fill such vacancies as shall or may happen, by the death, resignation, or removal of Ignatius A. Few, Lovick Pierce, Charles Hardy, William J. Parks, Elijah Sinclair, Samuel K. Hodges, Samuel J. Bryan, Alexander Speer, and George F. Pierce; and any vacancies that may happen by the death, resignation, or removal of any person, or persons appointed by the said conference to succeed them from time to time, and that the certificate of the presiding officer of said conference, for the time being, attested by the secretary thereof, shall be sufficient evidence of said appointment, and that all other vacancies be filled by the said board of trustees.

Sec. 8. Should the said trustees, or a majority of them, believe that the prospective interest of the aforesaid college will be increased by locating it in any county in this State, other than the county of Newton, they shall be, and are hereby empowered to fix the site of said college in any county in this State, anything in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

JOSEPH DAY, Speaker House of Representatives.

ROBERT M. ECHOLS, President of Senate.

Assented to December 10, 1836.

WILLIAM SCHLEY, Governor.

An Act to amend an Act entitled an Act to Incorporate Emory College, to be located in the County of Newton, assented to December 10, 1836.

Whereas, At the time of the passage of the said act of December 10, 1836, the said institution of learning was under the exclusive control of the Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the said conference embracing within its limits the greater portion of the State of Georgia; and, whereas, since that time the name of said conference has been, by proper tribunal, changed to the Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and whereas, also, since that time the territorial limits of the said State of Georgia have, by the proper authority of the said church, been divided into two annual conferences, the one known and called the North Georgia Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the other known and called the South Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; and, whereas, at and after the said division, the said two conferences, retained their respective interests in the said college; and whereas, also since the said division, the said conferences, through the board of trustees, have invited the Florida Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to participate with them in the control and support of the said Emory College, which said invitation was duly accepted by the said Florida Conference; and, whereas, it is deemed necessary, in view of the premises, that the number of trustees of the said Emory College should be increased, and the original act of incorporation be so amended as to conform to the present relation of the said three conferences to the said college.

Sec. 1. Be it therefore enacted, etc., That the first section of the said act of incorporation, assented to on the 10th day of December, 1836, be, and the same is hereby, repealed and stricken out, and the following section herein stated be inserted in the place and instead thereof, viz: That Bishops George F. Pierce and James O. Andrew, and five members (each of them being an itinerant minister of the gospel) of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to-wit: Rev. William J. Parks, Rev. Josiah Lewis, Sr., Rev. Alexander Means, Rev. G. J. Pearce, and Rev. Wyman H. Potter, and the five following named itinerant ministers being members of the South Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, viz: Rev. Lovick Pierce, Rev. James E. Evans, Rev. Joseph S. Key, Rev. E. H. Myers, and Rev. O. L. Smith, and three, viz: Rev. Josephus Anderson, Rev. Samuel Woodbury, and Rev. T. W. Moore, being itinerant members of the Florida Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and John J. Floyd, Thomas M. Merriwether, Henry Gaither, James J. Wright, William H. Goodrich, E. E. Rawson, George N. Lester, William H. Chambers, James Jackson, A. H. Colquitt, John J. Jones, and Richard Trumbull, the last twelve being lay members of the said Methodist Episcopal Church, South, be, and they are hereby appointed trustees of a college now established in the county of Newton, in this State, which said college is known and called by name of Emory College, seven of whom shall constitute a quorum.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said original act of incorporation be, and the same is hereby, further amended by repealing and striking out of the same the whole of the seventh section thereof, and inserting in the place and instead thereof a section as follows: That the said trustees, in their corporate name and character, shall have perpetual succession; and when any vacancy shall occur in said board of trustees, by death, resignation, removal or otherwise, such vacancy may be filled by the said board or a majority of them, at any regular meeting thereof: Provided, however, That the vacancy in the said board, caused by the death, or removal, or the resignation, or otherwise, of any of the itinerant members of the respective conferences, shall be filled with another itinerant member of the same conference, so that the North and South Georgia Annual Conferences shall each be represented in the board of trustees by five itinerant ministers, and the Florida Conference be represented by three; the lay members of the said board of trustees may be chosen indiscriminately from either or all of the said conferences as by said board may be deemed most advisable.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws militating against this act be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

Approved October 17, 1870.

1845.

Resolution authorizing his Excellency, the Governor, to furnish the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, with complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives,

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, in General Assembly convened, That His Excellency, the Governor, be requested to deliver to the Librarian of the Georgia Historical Society, Franklin College, Emory College, Mercer University, and Oglethorpe University, or order, two complete sets of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives, or as many of the numbers of said Journals as can be conveniently spared without breaking the sets now in the Public Library of the State.

Assented to December 8, 1845.

An Act to exempt Emory College and other Colleges in this State from taxation and to place them on the same footing with the University of Georgia.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Georgia in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the passage of this Act, all the property of Emory College and other colleges in this State shall be exempt from taxation, and shall be upon the same footing with the University of Georgia.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all the laws and parts of laws militating against this Act be, and the same are, hereby repealed.

Approved February 21, 1850.

1866.

An Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia and to provide the necessary means for the same.

Whereas, It is a matter of primary importance that Georgia should have native educated teachers for the instruction of the children of the State; and whereas, there are many indigent maimed soldiers in the State, under thirty, years, who, by reason of the loss of limbs, are deprived of the ability to perform physical labor; and whereas, it is a holy and patriotic duty to provide in the best manner possible for those unfortunate patriots; for remedy whereof:

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That all indigent maimed soldiers of the State of Georgia, under the age of thirty years old, be educated at the University of the State of Georgia, at Mercer University, at Emory College, at Oglethorpe University, and at Bowden College, free of charge for tuition, books, board and clothing, until completion of their legitimate term.

Sec. 2. That upon the application, accompanied with proper vouchers of any indigent maimed soldier, that he is of the class above specified, to the trustees of said universities and colleges, they shall forthwith receive him into said institution, and give him all the benefits of the same, upon the applicant entering into a written obligation, upon his honor, to teach, when he shall have completed his collegiate course, the same number of years in Georgia he may have been in said universities or colleges.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of effectually carrying into efficient operation the provisions of this Act, His Excellency, the Governor, be, and is hereby authorized, should there not be funds provided for in the Treasury, to issue to the trustees of said universities and colleges the bonds of the State, payable at such times and in such manner as he may deem best, to an amount sufficient to accomplish and carry into effectual operation the provisions of this Act; Provided, the State will not pay more than three hundred dollars per annum for each beneficiary under this Act.

Approved December 18, 1866.

1869.

An Act to repeal an Act to educate the indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia, approved December 18, 1866.

Section 1. Be it enacted, That the Act entitled an Act to educate indigent maimed soldiers of Georgia be, and the same is, hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. Repeals conflicting laws.

Approved March 19, 1869.

1886.

An Act to amend "An Act to incorporate Emory College, in the County of Newton," approved December 10, 1836, so as to increase the number of Trustees of Emory College, and authorize the Alumni Association of Emory College to elect from their body three of such Trustees, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above mentioned Act, incorporating Emory College, in the county of Newton, be, and it is hereby amended by the addition of three more to the number of trustees of Emory College provided for by said Act and the acts amendatory thereof, and also by providing the mode of electing such additional trustees, so as to allow said additional trustees to be elected by the Alumni Association of Emory College.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said Alumni Association of Emory College be, and they are hereby authorized, at their next meeting, to be held during the annual commencement of Emory College in June, 1887, to elect from among the members of said Association three trustees of Emory College, with terms of office as follows, to wit: One for three years, one for two years, and one for one year, and that after said first election said Association shall have power at each annual meeting of their body to elect in like manner the successor of the one of said trustees whose term of office then expires. The term of office of such trustees shall be three years after the first election, and in case of a vacancy, resulting from death or resignation of any one or more of these three trustees or from other cause, the Alumni Association shall fill the unexpired term or terms by like election at their annual meeting.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the trustees to be elected as aforesaid shall be entitled to all the powers and privileges, and subject to all the duties and liabilities of other trustees of Emory College, and that a certificate of their election, signed by the presiding officer, for the time being, of said Alumni Association and attested by the secretary thereof shall be sufficient evidence thereof.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved December 23, 1886.

1888.

An Act to authorize the graduates of the Law Department of Emory College to plead and practice in the several courts of law and equity in the State of Georgia, and for other purposes.

Sec 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, any person having from the proper authorities of Emory College, in this State, a diploma of graduation in the Law Department of said College, shall be authorized to plead and practice in all the courts of law and equity in this State without further examination, upon payment of the usual fees, and upon taking the oaths and receiving the license prescribed by law, and said graduates shall have the same rights, privileges and liabilities as are conferred and imposed by law on the graduates of the Law School of the University of Georgia.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved December 12, 1888.

1890.

An Act to amend an Act to incorporate Emory College, in the County of Newton, approved December 10, 1836, and the various Acts amendatory thereof, so as to increase the number of Trustees of said College, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, That from and after the passage of this Act, the above named Act incorporating Emory College in the county of Newton, and the various Acts amendatory thereof, be, and are, hereby amended by adding eight additional trustees to the present number of said College, to wit: W. P. Pattillo, Walter B. Hill, E. P. Chamberlin, A. O. McDonell, Charles G. Goodrich, J. P. Williams, Robert Battey, and Lemuel Johnson.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all vacancies which may happen by the death, resignation or removal of said eight above-named trustees shall be filled by the Board of Trustees of said College, if by said board it be deemed advisable to fill such vacancies.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted by the same authority, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 26, 1890.

1893.

An Act to amend the Charter of Emory College so as to make the resident Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of the said College, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the charter of Emory College is hereby amended so as to make the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, residing in the State of Georgia, ex-officio members of the Board of Trustees of said College.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved December 16, 1893.

STATUTES OF EMORY COLLEGE.

CHAPTER I.—BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

ARTICLE I.—Meetings.

Section 1. (1) The Board shall convene annually in Oxford, Ga., at ten o'clock a. m., on the Friday before the second Wednesday in June—i. e., before the Commencement.

(2) Nine members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(3) A member absent from two consecutive meetings, without rendering sufficient excuse, shall forfeit his membership.

(4) The meetings shall be open only to the members and Secretary of the Board, except when others are admitted to give information.

(5) A meeting of the Board may be called at any time, by its President, on special notice by the Secretary to each member, or three weeks' public notice; provided, however, that if a majority of the Board is not present at a special meeting, its action must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting, to give it validity.

Sec. 2. (1) There shall be an Executive Committee consisting of five members, to be appointed by the President of the Board, empowered to meet and act in any emergency, to counsel the Faculty if desired, and to supervise, ad interim, the interests of the College.

(2) Their proceedings shall be recorded in the permanent Record Book of the Board, and their acts must be confirmed at the ensuing annual meeting to give them validity.

ARTICLE II.—Order of Business.

Section 1. (1) The Order of Business shall be:

1st Religious Services.

2d Call of Roll.

3d Reading of Minutes.

4th Appointment of Standing Committees of two or more members.

(1) On Finance and Treasurer's Report.

(2) On Internal Condition and Discipline of the College.

(3) On Condition of Building and Grounds.

(4) On Library, Apparatus, Cabinets, and other property.

5th Report of Faculty.

6th Report of Treasurer.

- 7th Report of Agents.
- 8th Report of Special Committees.
- 9th Report of Standing Committees.
- 10th Unfinished Business or New Business.
- 11th. Executive Committee Appointed.
- 12th Trustees to Organize, Visiting Committees appointed.
- 13th Election of Officers for ensuing year.

(2) It is understood that some of these items need be called only on first day of annual meetings; others—as 11th, 12th, and 13th—only on last day; but the above shall be the daily order, so far as applicable to the business of each day.

Sec. 2. This order of Business may be suspended for a defined reason by a two-thirds majority.

ARTICLE III.—Officers and their Duties.

Section 1. The Officers of the Board shall be a President, Secretary and Treasurer, to be elected annually; provided, however, that the same person may be elected Secretary and Treasurer, at the option of the Board.

Sec. 2. The President of the Board shall preside over its meetings; maintain order; enforce the rules of the Board; appoint committees not otherwise ordered; call special meetings, under the rule; represent the Board in meetings of stockholders of any company in which it owns stock, and perform such other duties as may be properly assigned him, to promote the interest of the College.

Sec. 3. (1) The Secretary of the Board shall journalize all its proceedings; shall record them—as also the proceedings of the Executive Committee—fully in permanent form; and shall carefully keep the records and all papers entrusted to his care, subject to the order of the Board.

(2) To facilitate his business, if he requires, motions shall be reduced to writing before they are acted upon.

Sec. 4. (1) The Treasurer of the Board shall keep a full and intelligible account, in permanent form, of all the transactions of his office—of all moneys paid or given, and of all notes or other evidences of debt or gift coming into his hands—of all moneys paid out by him, and of all notes or assets used or surrendered in liquidation of debts—recording, in every case, dates and names of payer or payee, and on what account paid—whether as College fees, gift, endowment, dividend, interest, building repairs, salaries, incidental expenses, etc., etc.

(2) He shall keep safely and subject to the order of the Board, all moneys and papers entrusted to his care—disbursing its funds, except for incidental expenses, only as the Board or Executive Committee shall have ordered or authorized.

(3) He shall make to the Board, at every annual meeting, a full exhibit of the assets and liabilities, and of the financial condition of the College, showing accurately the receipts and expenditures of the year, and on what accounts, severally, money has been received and disbursed.

(4) He shall give bond, with approved security, for the faithful discharge of his duties; and shall receive compensation for his services.

ARTICLE IV.—Election and Amendments.

Section 1. All elections for officers and members of the Board, members of the Faculty of Instruction, and for nominees to Honorary Degrees, shall be by ballot.

Sec. 2. These By-Laws may be amended at an annual meeting, by a two-thirds vote, on one day's notice, or by a majority vote, if notice has been given at a previous annual or special meeting.

CHAPTER II.—THE FACULTY OF INSTRUCTION.

ARTICLE I.—Constitution of Faculty.

Section 1. (1) The Faculty of Instruction shall be:

1st. A Professor of Moral and Mental Science.

2d A Professor of English Language and Literature.

3d A Professor of Pure Mathematics and Astronomy.

4th A Professor of Applied Mathematics.

5th A Professor of Natural Science.

6th A Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.

7th A Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.

8th A Professor of Modern Languages, and such other Professors as the Board may hereafter designate; and from among these Professors the Board shall elect a President and Vice-President of the College; while the Faculty shall elect their own Secretary.

(2) A member of the Faculty may hold office for only three years, except by re-election; provided, also, that he may be displaced for cause at any time; or, if elected in the interval of annual meetings, the election must be confirmed at the next annual meeting, and his election shall date from that time.

(3) A member of the Faculty may not engage, without the consent of the Board, in any business that will interfere with the regular and punctual discharge of all his official duties.

ARTICLE II.—Specific Duties of the Faculty.

Section 1. The President of the College or, in his absence, the Vice-President, shall carefully supervise all the interests of the College; shall hold meetings of the Faculty under the rules ordained by themselves, at which he shall preside, and cause their proceedings to be recorded for inspection by the Board; shall promulgate their enactments, and enforce their decisions in cases of discipline; shall preside over all the public exercises of the College; shall confer degrees with consent of the Board; shall see that all the rules and regulations for the government of the College are enforced, and that a uniform discipline is maintained; and shall perform such other duties as shall from time to time be assigned to his office by the Board for the good government and success of the College.

Sec. 2. The Professor of English Language and Literature shall give instruction to all the College classes in Composition and Oratory, with such assistance—if he need any—as the Faculty may assign to him.

Sec. 3. The Professor of Natural Science shall be charged—in addition to his class duties—with the care of the apparatus, cabinets of minerals, etc.; shall keep them in good order, and report annually their condition.

Sec. 4. The several members of the Faculty shall give faithful instruction in their respective departments; shall unite in a uniform administration of discipline by exacting conformity to all the regulations of the Faculty and Trustees for the government of the College, in their respective recitation rooms and elsewhere; and shall report to the President all cases of neglect, disobedience, or improper conduct that may be deemed to need infliction of penalty.

Sec. 5. Each member shall give whatever aid the Faculty may designate to the classes of another member absent or sick; and shall under like direction assist in any class or department, if competent—where assistance may be needed; provided, however, that the regular class duties of any Professor may not be made—without his consent—to exceed four hours passed daily in hearing recitations—or the equivalent thereof.

ARTICLE III.—General Duties of the Faculty.

Section 1. (1) The Faculty shall instruct in that course of study and text-books printed in the latest Annual Catalogue; provided, that the course may be altered or added to at any annual meeting of the Board.

2nd. The Faculty may receive students, not candidates for a degree, who possess the requisite qualifications for taking up the studies they elect; provided, they take studies sufficient to profitably occupy their time.

3rd. The Faculty shall fix the hours of study, recreation, and recitation; provided, that each class shall be required to devote at least four hours daily to recitations or lectures.

4th. The Faculty being charged individually and collectively with the maintenance of a uniform discipline, and with holding the students to a strict account for the discharge of duty, observance of rule, and good behavior, to promote these ends:

(a) They shall have authority to make and enforce such needed rules and regulations relative to the College police and behavior of the students, in recitation and elsewhere, as may secure decent deportment, good morals and regularity in habits and practices; provided, such rules, etc., do not conflict with the enactments of the Trustees, and are submitted to the Board for approval at the annual meeting succeeding their enactment.

(b) The Faculty shall, under such minor regulations as they may adopt whereby they may secure justice and fair dealing with the several classes according to age of pupils and time of College residence, hold rigid written examinations of every class, monthly or quarterly, at the discretion of the Professor.

(c) Two circulars, showing the class standing of each student, shall be issued during each College year—one at the close of the Fall and one at the close of the Spring Term.

5th. When the demerits of any student shall amount within the Fall Term to 75, or in the Spring Term to 150, he shall be liable to the penalties elsewhere provided in the College Statutes; and when a student has been dismissed he shall in no case be readmitted except after a personal interview with his parent or guardian, and on direct application of such parent or guardian, made either in person or by letter, accompanied with satisfactory assurance from the student himself of future good conduct and faithful attention to duty, and then only when in the judgment of the Faculty his longer connection with the College will be of mutual benefit to himself and the institution. The fact that the student is of age, or is paying his own expenses in the College, will work no exception to this rule.

(a) In estimating the value of demerits as they affect the class standing of students, one should be subtracted from the report of every ten demerits. The Secretary of the Faculty shall keep a "Demerit Roll," on which all demerits shall be entered at each meeting of the Faculty.

(b) The average of the marks given to each student at the end of each term, in each study, and in deportment, shall be recorded, and the average of the marks for all the term of his College residence shall constitute his "final standing."

(c) A student whose yearly class-standing shall not commend itself to the approval of the Faculty, shall not advance with his class, or graduate.

(d) Twelve members of the Junior Class and twelve members of the Senior Class shall be selected—from both, in order of their "final class-standing"—to deliver original speeches at Commencement; the Juniors being limited to eight minutes, and the Seniors to ten minutes' time, each.

(e) Four Honors—designated First, Second, Third and Fourth Honors—shall be conferred on the graduates in the order of their "final class-standing." Of these, two shall, in any case, be awarded to the first two among the candidates for the A. B. degree in point of class-standing. To the candidate for the B. Ph. degree with the highest class-standing, if his rank is among the first four of his class, shall be awarded an Honor. Under similar conditions, an Honor shall be awarded to a candidate for the B. S. degree. But, when any of the conditions named are not fulfilled, the honor in question shall be awarded to the candidate for the A. B. degree next to those to whom honors have already been awarded. To the two graduates receiving the First and Second Honors, the Faculty shall make the following assignments for commencement:

The Valedictory Address to the graduate receiving the First Honor; to the graduate receiving the Second Honor the Salutatory Address, which may be in Latin, French, German, or English, as the Faculty may direct.

(f) The Senior Class shall be examined ten days before Commencement, and the honors assigned; after which the class may be discharged—except the selected speakers, who shall remain in Oxford, subject to all the laws of the College, except those requiring attendance on recitation.

(g) Ten or more—the number not to exceed fifteen—members of the Sophomore Class shall be selected by the Faculty, on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes in oratory at Commencement; the speech of each one to be limited, however, to eight minutes in length.

(h) Ten members of the Freshman Class shall be selected by the Faculty on the ground of excellence in declamation, to compete for prizes at Commencement.

(i) The names of all students the average of whose class standing for the year is above 9 shall be published at Commencement on a Roll of Honor.

(j) The degree of Bachelor of Science shall be ordered conferred by the trustees, on a student who has satisfactorily completed the studies of the Scientific course; that of Bachelor of Arts, on one having so completed the A. B. course; and that of Bachelor of Philosophy, on one having completed the Master of Arts course.

(k) The Faculty, through its president, shall present the names of those qualified and entitled, according to law, to those respective degrees, to which they can be admitted only by a vote of the Board, and no diploma shall be issued to a student who fails to attend the Commencement of his graduation, unless he is absent by consent of the Faculty for good and sufficient cause shown.

6th. The Faculty shall be charged, collectively, with the care of the College property, and shall correct any waste, or abuse, or neglect apparent respecting it.

7th. The Faculty shall elect a Librarian, who shall have charge of the Library, under such regulations as they may adopt.

8th. The Faculty shall constitute a Committee on Incidental Expenses, and they shall carefully inspect and audit all charges on said account, and report the same, by items, through the Treasurer to the Board.

9th. The Faculty shall co-operate with the Trustees appointed to organize the Visiting Committee in furnishing said committee all necessary accommodations for their work, and shall offer for its inspection the final examination papers of the respective classes.

ARTICLE IV.—Laws for Students and Penalties.

Section 1. (1) No student shall be admitted to College privileges until he has voluntarily subscribed the following pledge in the Matriculation Book, viz:

“Acting under that sense of honor which always prompts a gentleman to hold his pledged word inviolate, I hereby promise to conform to all the regulations and laws of Emory College, now enacted, or which may be enacted, by the proper authorities during my connection with the institution; and to yield respect and obedience to all its constituted authorities.”

(2) In the intercourse of the students with each other and with the Faculty, it is expected that they will be governed by those rules of decorum and courtesy which mark the intercourse of gentlemen elsewhere—being respectful to those in authority—kind to fellow-students—considerate of their feelings—despising all paltry tricks upon citizens or servants, officers or students, as unworthy of cultivated gentlemen.

(3) As to moral conduct.—Profanity, gaming, Sabbath-breaking, indecent or vulgar language or conduct, quarreling, fighting, malicious mischief, deceit, falsehood, fraud, dishonesty toward each other or towards tradesmen, licentiousness and like crimes, disqualify a young man for an honorable standing in the College, and will not be tolerated.

Sec. 2. (1) More specifically.—Students are prohibited from attending any ball, theatre, horse-race, or cock-fight; from using intoxicating drinks; from playing cards; playing at any game for stakes; from keeping fire-arms or any deadly weapon, a horse, a dog, or a servant; from engaging in anything forbidden by the Faculty; from associating with persons of known bad character; from visiting Covington or other near points beyond the limits of Oxford without permission from some member of the Faculty, and from visiting points more distant without permission from parents or guardians and the permission of the President of the College; from visiting any place of ill-repute, or at which gaming is practiced, or intoxicating liquors are sold; from engaging in any "match game," or "intercollegiate game of football, baseball, etc., whatsoever.

(2) Study hours being appointed for study and recitation must be devoted strictly to study; therefore, students must be punctually present at all their recitations; and they are forbidden during study hours to visit each other's rooms, to engage in play, to be noisy or boisterous, to collect in the halls, public rooms or elsewhere for conversation or any other purpose; to leave the College premises; or to be absent from their respective rooms, after 10 o'clock on any night.

(3) Students must attend morning and evening prayer in the Chapel and public worship in the Church at Oxford on Sunday mornings and evenings—at which services all indecorous conduct is strictly prohibited.

(4) The President, or, if he cannot be seen, any member of the Faculty in any given case, on application—or the Faculty, on special occasions or for special purpose, may relax the stringency of any general rule.

(5) No College Secret Societies shall be formed, unless the Trustees permit it; nor shall students join any outside Secret Society, without permission from the President of the College. The time and place of meeting of such societies shall be under the control of the Faculty.

(6) The occupants of a room shall be held responsible for good order in their room.

(7) A student who behaves improperly in the recitation room may be dismissed from it by the Professor, and the case reported speedily to the President, for such action and punishment as the impropriety may merit.

(8) A student who defaces or injures any College building or other property, shall be held responsible for the damage done.

(9) No student shall leave College, or absent himself from duty on the plea that he has withdrawn from the institution, except with the permission of his parent or guardian, and of the President of the College, under the penalty of dismissal; and any student so withdrawn, or one suspended or dismissed, must at once leave Oxford (if a non-resident), except the President otherwise allows.

(10) Every student shall be required to choose, upon his entrance into the College, the course he will pursue, and when he has made a choice, he shall not be allowed to change without consent of the Faculty; nor shall he be permitted to undertake studies outside of the course upon which he is placed, without the consent and approval of the President.

(11) All combinations of two or more students to neglect duty, to violate law, or to oppose authority shall be considered an offense of higher grade than isolated acts, and shall be punished accordingly.

(12) These rules apply to students in all departments of the College; and all the rules respecting moral conduct, good order, and study apply to sons or wards of citizens of Oxford, members of the College.

Sec. 3. (1) The Faculty shall try all offenders against College law and order, when arraignment has become necessary, and inflict suitable punishment, either (1) private admonition; (2) admonition before the Faculty; (3) admonition before the class; (4) admonition before the College; (5) suspension for a limited time; (6) indefinite suspension; (7) dismissal; or (8) expulsion.

(2) When a student, by general neglect of College duties, shows want of principle, or a spirit of insubordination; or, from habitual idleness and inattention to duty, fails to maintain a fair standing in his class, if he cannot be reformed by kind admonition, the Faculty shall cause the facts in his case to be presented to his father or guardian, with the request that he shall be privately withdrawn from the institution, and if not withdrawn, he may be dismissed.

(3) Nothing indecent, profane, immoral, or otherwise improper or unsuitable to the occasion, shall be spoken from the rostrum, under penalty of suitable punishment; and all students appointed to speak publicly shall exhibit their speeches to the officer whose duty it is to supervise them, and if the speaker attempts to deliver what has been erased, or forbidden, or any offensive matter he may add thereto, he shall be stopped, sent from the rostrum, his honors or degrees denied him, and be expelled for contumacy.

THE EDUCATIONAL LOAN FUND ASSOCIATION.

During the year 1888 many liberal persons, friends of the College and of struggling young men, organized a corporation known as the "Educational Loan Fund Association of Emory College." The methods of its work are set forth in its Constitution and By-Laws, which follow:

ARTICLE I.

NAME, OBJECT, AND BUSINESS.

Section 1. The corporate name of this organization is "The Educational Loan Fund Association of Emory College," and its general object is to aid deserving young men in obtaining collegiate education in Emory College, Oxford, Ga.

Sec. 2. Its business is to accumulate funds by donations, collections, membership shares, loans, purchase and sale, gifts by will, deed, and otherwise, and various other methods, for the object aforesaid. Also, to borrow and lend money, to accept, hold, and execute trusts and guardianship of minors; also to provide for the tuition, boarding, books, and other educational expenses of students. The said business being entirely for the object aforesaid, it shall afford no personal or corporate profit for its members, and they shall have no personal liability for its debts or acts whatever.

ARTICLE II.

MEMBERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT.

Section 1. Membership shall consist of individuals, conferences, churches, societies, and corporations that have each paid into the General Loan Fund at least ten dollars, which is the par value of one share in said Association. A certificate shall be issued to each member, specifying the number of shares paid for at the rate of ten dollars per share, and every member shall be entitled to vote in all Association meetings, in person or by proxy, one vote for each share standing in his name. Each conference, church, society, or corporation holding one or more shares may appoint a representative, who shall cast the vote of his principal.

Sec. 2. The business shall be managed by Trustees acting as a Board of Directors, no fewer than five or more than thirteen, elected by the Association for one year, and holding until their successors are elected and qualified, who shall have all the powers of the Association, whenever it is not in session, except as they shall be restricted by the laws of the Association. They shall make their own rules and regulations, in which they shall prescribe the duties of Directors and all officers. They shall execute all trusts; they shall have control and management of all moneys, notes, bonds, stocks, and other property, real and personal, of the Association; they shall elect the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, fill all vacancies of unexpired terms, and do all other acts necessary or expedient to promote the objects of the Association. And they may expend not more than ten per cent. of the receipts, interests, and income of the Association annually in defraying the current expenses of its management. They shall provide for an annual meeting of the Association.

ARTICLE III.

ASSETS AND INCOME.

Section 1. The assets of the Association, consisting of money, notes, bonds, stocks, real and personal property, and all other property acquired by donations or otherwise from individuals, conferences, churches, societies, or corporations, shall be held and used for the sole educational object set forth in its charter and by-laws. Special gifts or trusts of any nature will be accepted, held and extended for the benefit of students or of the College, as directed by the donors. All assets shall be accounted for in the annual report.

Sec. 2. The income and general receipts of the Association will be derived from contributions by benevolent persons, membership shares, gifts by deed or will, donations by conferences, churches, societies, and corporations, and other lawful and proper methods, and they shall be accounted for in the annual report.

Sec. 3. Any District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Georgia, Florida, or other State, may provide for the payment, annually or otherwise, into the General Loan Fund of the Association, of the sum of TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS, or other sum not less than FIFTY DOLLARS; and may thereupon elect in its own way, a student or students to receive the benefit of said contribution in tuition, board, and books, or either, in Emory College according to the sum paid in. This sum so paid in shall be placed permanently in the General Loan Fund, and shall be entered to the loan account of the student or students whom the District Conference shall have elected; and said student, when he is accepted by the Faculty of Emory College, shall have the benefit of said contribution according to the by-laws regulating the Loan Fund. Any Annual or Quarterly Conference, or any church, society, corporation, or individual, who shall make a similar contribution to the Loan Fund, shall have the same privileges prescribed for District Conferences.

ARTICLE IV.

LOANS.

Section 1. The General Loan Fund shall consist of all subscriptions, collections, donations by wills, deed, or otherwise, of money, stocks, bonds, notes, and other property, real and personal, or mixed, or choses in action, which have been acquired of individuals, churches, societies, and corporations for the purpose of making loans to students as aforesaid; the notes also of students given in payment of said loans, together with all interest that may accrue on the same, and all income, interest, and profits, and every estate not specially donated otherwise, shall be placed in the General Loan Fund.

Sec. 2. Loans shall be made to young men to aid them in securing collegiate education as follows: No young man shall be a claimant on the Loan Fund until he shall have been accepted by the Faculty as a member, in one of the College classes, and his claim shall cease on the day of his graduation, dismissal, or withdrawal. No student shall receive loans from the Loan Fund above two hundred dollars per annum. The loan shall be paid first on tuition, and afterwards on board, books, and other expenses. The student to whom the loan is made shall execute his promissory notes for the payments of all loans, and these notes shall be framed so as to make the repayments in annual instalments of the amount annually borrowed. These notes shall also be made payable so that the first instalment of repayment shall be due twelve months after the student, who is the maker of the note, shall have left the College, or shall have been graduated, and the other notes successively annually thereafter. These notes shall bear no interest until after the student leaves the College, when they begin to draw interest at the annual rate of 5 per cent., and if not paid at maturity, they will thereafter draw interest at the rate of 8 per cent. They shall be a part of the General Loan Fund, and when collected by the Association or its assigns, the funds arising therefrom shall remain a part of the Loan Fund perpetually.

Sec. 3. Special accounts shall be kept of all funds arising from gifts of individuals, or from any other source, which have been given or acquired on any special use or trust, and the same shall be employed according to the terms of the trust or wishes of the donor, whether it be for loans or for donations to students or to Emory College, or to any department, chair, or school of said College.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS.

These By-Laws may be amended at a regular meeting of said Trustees or Directors by a two-thirds' vote, previous notice for thirty days having been given for the amendment proposed.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT.

To the Members of the Alumni Association of Emory College:

For many years it has been a custom of the alumni of Emory College to meet annually during the commencement occasion and have some one of its members deliver an oration. These meetings were public and were held in the College chapel, usually on Tuesday afternoon. After the address was delivered and officers for the ensuing year elected, a motion to adjourn was generally next in order and carried, and the members dispersed. Such meetings did not tend to create any enthusiasm among the alumni. Besides, there seemed to be no special object for the Association, as such, to accomplish.

At the meeting of 1895, I suggested that the Association should be regularly incorporated under the laws of Georgia and that its members should consist of the graduates and former students of the College, who should pay annual dues of $5 each; that the Association should thereafter hold its meetings at night, to which the public should not be invited, and that a banquet should be one of the features of these meetings; also, that the Association should undertake the endowment of an alumni professorship of History and Political Economy. These suggestions were adopted, and on motion a committee was appointed to secure a charter. At this meeting it was also determined that the next one should be at night, and a committee of arrangements was appointed to provide for a banquet. The meeting for 1896 was accordingly held on Monday night of the commencement in the library room of Seney Hall, where a banquet was served, and those who were present will not soon forget that delightful occasion. The charter which had been secured was then presented and formally adopted, and an organization perfected. A copy of the charter is submitted with this report.

As stated in the charter, "the object of said corporation is not pecuniary gain to its members, but its object will be to promote and foster the interests of Emory College in all proper manner and particularly to endow a professorship in said College to be supported by said corporation, and to cultivate and encourage the feeling of fellowship and comradeship among its members, with full power to do all things necessary or desirable to attain such objects."

It is gratifying to state that at the meeting of 1896 the Association passed a resolution requesting the trustees of the College to establish an alumni chair of History and Political Economy, and pledged the Association to support it. The trustees acted in accordance with this request and elected Prof. J. E. Dickey, a worthy alumnus of the College (who was at that time a member of the faculty), to fill this new chair. Prof. Dickey, upon his election to this professorship, resigned as treasurer of the Association, and Prof. H. H. Stone, who is also an honored member of the faculty of the College, was elected treasurer in his place. His report is herewith submitted for your information. It will be seen from the treasurer's report that the dues have not been sufficient to fully pay Prof. Dickey's salary, and the deficiency has been thus far supplied by the trustees. We believe the Association will make it unnecessary for this to happen in the future, and this can easily be done if all of the graduates will become members and pay the small annual fee of $5. If each class, as it graduates, will join this Association, form a class organization, elect a permanent class secretary, whose duty it will be to keep all of the members in touch with each other by informing himself and his classmates from time to time about the members, and especially by looking forward to the annual alumni reunions, it will be an easy matter in a few years to secure a membership that will be of great mutual help all through life, and at the same time of decided benefit to the College.

In closing this report, allow me to congratulate the Association on the progress it has made during its first year, and to urge that every member consider himself a self-constituted agent to secure additional members from the old students, and to do all in his power to foster the interests of the dear old College which has done so much for us and which we love so well. Let us prove our love by our works.

Respectfully submitted,

H. E. W. PALMER,

June 7, 1897.

PETITION.

STATE OF GEORGIA, } To the Superior Court of said COUNTY OF NEWTON. } County.

The petition of A. G. Haygood, Sr., J. F. Bonnell, H. S. Bradley, J. E. Dickey, Capers Dickson, J. M. Pace, all of the county and State aforesaid; and H. E. W. Palmer, of Fulton county, said State, shows:

1st. That they desire for themselves, their associates and successors, to be duly incorporated and made a body corporate for the full period of twenty (20) years, with the right of renewal, under and by the corporate name of with all the powers common to private corporations under the laws of said State.

2d. The object of said corporation is not pecuniary gain to its members, but its object will be to promote and foster the interests of Emory College, situated in said county and State, in all proper manner and particularly to endow a professorship in said College, to be supported by said corporation, and to cultivate and encourage the feeling of fellowship and comradeship among its members with full power to do all things necessary or desirable to attain such objects.

3d. The corporation will have no capital stock or income except from fees and dues to be paid by its members in accordance with its by-laws, and from such donations as friends of the College may make to said company.

4th. The corporation is to hold all property and money coming to it from whatever source for carrying out the objects of this company, and upon its dissolution all of said property is to become the absolute property of the Trustees of Emory College, for the use and benefit of said College.

5th. That a quorum for the transaction of any business of the company, at any meeting thereof, shall consist of the members of said company in good standing for the time being who may be present at any meeting thereof, either in person or by proxy; and said members so present, though not a majority of all of said members, shall have full power to do any and all things authorized to be done by said company.

6th. No member of said company shall be considered in good standing or entitled to vote at any meeting or hold any office in said company who is in arrears in the payment of his dues or fees.

7th. Petitioners desire the authority to exercise all corporate powers of said company until its officers are duly elected.

8th. That the office of said company shall be in Oxford, said county and State.

Wherefore, they pray that when this petition shall have been duly filed and published as required by law, this court will pass an order granting the same and incorporating them as herein prayed, in terms of the law in such cases made and provided; and petitioners will ever pray, etc.

ORDER OF INCORPORATION.

GEORGIA, }
NEWTON COUNTY. } In the Superior Court of said County.

Upon hearing the petition, in open court, of A. G. Haygood, Sr., J. F. Bonnell, H. S. Bradley, J. E. Dickey, J. M. Pace, Capers Dickson and H. E. W. Palmer, for themselves, their associates and successors, to be incorporated under the corporate name of "Alumni Association of Emory College," as in said petition stated, and after duly considering the same, and the Court being satisfied that the application is legitimately within the purview and intention of the laws of this State, and it being made further to appear to the Court that the said petition has heretofore been duly published as required by law, and it further appearing that the law in all respects, in such cases made and provided, has been duly complied with, it is considered, ordered and adjudged by the Court that said application is granted; and said petitioners, their associates and successors, are hereby made a body corporate under the corporate name of "Alumni Association of Emory College," with all the rights, powers and privileges set forth in their said petition. Ordered further that the Clerk of this Court, upon payment of proper fees, shall give to said petitioners a duly certified copy of said application and of this order. In open court, this September 27, 1895.

THE _____

STONE MOUNTAIN ROUTE

GEORGIA RAILROAD

— IS THE —

GREAT STEEL THOROUGHFARE

BETWEEN THE

EAST AND WEST,

SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.

Its geographical situation is such that it passes through the Eastern middle section of Georgia, the most fertile and productive section of the State, as well as the most thickly settled section. There are numerous towns and villages along the line. Among others we may mention Conyers, Covington, Social Circle, Madison, Greensboro, Crawfordville (the home of the late Hon. Alex. H. Stephens), Thomson and Harlem, while its branch lines give communication to all sections of the country, from Washington, Warrenton, Sparta and Milledgeville.

If you desire to locate in the most healthful section of Georgia, you will find it on the Georgia Railroad.

All well-informed persons travel and ship via Georgia R. R.
